

SLINGSHOT

VOLUME 1, ISSUE 42

APRIL 28, 1991

BERKELEY, CA

50 CENTS

Just a few weeks ago, three rape stories were run on the front page of the Daily Cal. We, too, are running a rape story on our front page, but we're also running stories on the next page, and on the page after that.... We are sick of seeing rape portrayed as an isolated crime against individual women. Contrary to popular belief, women are not helpless victims, nor do they deserve to be violated. The problem of rape is not just a problem between rapist and woman, but is ingrained in a society that demands the DOMINATION OF MEN OVER WOMEN, RICH OVER POOR, WHITE PEOPLE OVER PEOPLE OF COLOR, HETEROSEXUALS OVER QUEERS, HUMANS OVER THE ENVIRONMENT AND ANIMALS, and THE U.S. OVER THE REST OF THE WORLD.

We are attempting to look at rape from this more systemic viewpoint. Thus, in this issue of Slingshot, women's voices are exploring the issues that the mainstream media has conveniently excluded. In addition, we emphasize that the other topics in this Slingshot, including fee increases and education cuts, the Middle East, and the battle over People's Park, also relate to the themes of "domination over." Women's issues are not separate from other forms of power relations, and there is an effort here to work toward making connections. Finally, we have included not only articles about rape, but poems as well, for we must recognize the variety of expressions that women's voices can take. Rape is not an issue to be sensationalized on the front page, and excluded from the rest of a publication. As women, we refuse to be manipulated, silenced, or confined ...

If Women were oil-rich countries, maybe the government would protect us from rape, too

When campus cops and their official media allies reported last month on the kidnapping and rape of a woman student, they did an impressive job of spreading lies to the campus community. For example. Lie #1: Since only two rapes and three attempted rapes were recorded by the UCPD last year, members of the campus community don't need to be overly concerned about their safety (or that of other people), and if they are concerned, they are just panicking.

Let's take a look at this. Five incidents of violence were recorded. How many were reported and never recorded? How many women tried to report rape or attempted rape or assault and found no encouragement? How many women aren't even sure what happened to them is rape? In a country that talks about rape as something exclusively perpetrated by have first dibs on her body. It therefore come as no surprise that the media isn't exactly full of reports of rich white men raping women of color- and only rich white men could be cocksure (as in "sure that one has a c o c k") enough to contend that it's because it doesn't happen.

In

community, sees this rape as a golden opportunity to destroy those who resist its authority. The set-up for this clever maneuver protect them.

But luck for the folks in power, this rape can be used not just as an excuse to destroy one marginalized group; it can be used to smash down the victim herself and all women. The original report of the attack quoted a campus authority as saying that violent incidents teach women that they have to be vigilant in urban areas. Why doesn't this instead teach cops that they have to be vigilant? And what the hell will vigilance do for a woman if her attacker has a knife, like this one did? It sounds like the official line is: Lie #4: If women are

If Women were oil-rich countries, maybe the government would protect us from rape, too

When campus cops and their official media allies reported last month on the kidnapping and rape of a woman student, they did an impressive job of spreading lies to the campus community. For example. Lie #1: Since only two rapes and three attempted rapes were recorded by the UCPD last year, members of the campus community don't need to be overly concerned about their safety (or that of other people), and if they are concerned, they are just panicking.

Let's take a look at this. Five incidents of violence were recorded. How many were reported and never recorded? How many women tried to report rape or attempted rape or assault and found no encouragement? How many women aren't even sure what happened to them is rape? In a country that talks about rape as something exclusively perpetrated by Iraqi soldiers on Kuwaiti soil and Kuwaiti women, how can a woman believe that sexual assault by an acquaintance, companion, or husband is a crime?

In fact, it's clear from all the official reports that- Lie #2: rape only counts when it can be construed as invasion, as a violation of property rights. So the fact that in the recent attack, the rapist was an African-American fits right in with the racist model of invasion-as-rape; just as the dark-skinned Iraqis stole the Western corporations' possession, a rape is the theft of rich white men's property, since regardless of the woman's race, white men have first dibs on her body. It therefore come as no surprise that the media isn't exactly full of reports of rich white men raping women of color- and only rich white men could be cocksure (as in "sure that one has a c o c k") enough to contend that it's because it doesn't happen.

In keeping with the w a r metaphor, t h e university, in its own little war against the southside community, sees this rape as a golden opportunity to destroy those who resist its authority. The set-up for this clever maneuver protect them.

But luck for the folks in power, this rape can be used not just as an excuse to destroy one marginalized group; it can be used to smash down the victim herself and all women. The original report of the attack quoted a campus authority as saying that violent incidents teach women that they have to be vigilant in urban areas. Why doesn't this instead teach cops that they have to be vigilant? And what the hell will vigilance do for a woman if her attacker has a knife, like this one did? It sounds like the official line is: Lie #4: If women are attacked, they have only themselves to blame. This is particularly sickening in light of the fact that the university doesn't offer a single free course in women's self-defense.

Finally, we get the message that- Lie #5 only women are the victims of violence. I have to give the Daily Callous some credit for this one, too. Hoyt Sze, best known for an inept attempt at satire ("Why

I Hate Affirmative Action") earlier in the semester, interviewed five women to find out how they felt about rape. This in spite of the fact that men can be, and have been raped on campus, too. And where was the interview with five homeless men after Hank Dacek, a homeless man, was beaten to death on campus on New Year's Eve? Where was the interview with five frat boys after the recent string of Greek deaths? The exclusive focus on rape of women denies both that women can be victims of violence other than rape and that men can't be the victims of violence at all. Queer-bashing, I guess, either doesn't happen or it isn't important in the dominant framework. Maybe because it's not a property crime. And meanwhile rich, white men can feel safe

roaming the streets— after all, the cops are

is as callous as George Bush's exploitation of the Amnesty International report on Iraq's human-rights abuse. Yeah, sure, Bush cares about human rights- take a look at his chums in China and El Salvador. Yeah, sure, the university cares about a woman's safety- take a look at the incidents of police brutality at, most recently and ironically, the International Women's Day rally.

The claim that the university development-mongers are making is simple- Lie #3 the southside community is dangerous to innocent people's safety, so it has to be crushed. This assertion is implicit in statements such as that found on March 8 in the administration's mouthpiece, the Daily Cal. UC cop Pat Carroll is quoted on the front page as saying, "There is a large population with a lot of students and

EDUCATION IS A RIGHT FIGHT FIGHT FIGHT

If California was a country, it would be the sixth wealthiest in the world. Yet unlike comparably wealthy nations, where education is provided free at all levels and financial incentives are offered to encourage students to remain in schools, education in California is rapidly becoming deficit, as of 4/6/91 estimated at $12.5 billion, which is insufficient taxation of corporations and the wealthy, Wilson plans to slash state spending to already dismally funded social programs and impose a regressive taxation system to be borne by those least able to afford it.

His planned cut of husband is a crime?

In fact, it's clear from all the official reports that- Lie #2: rape only counts when it can be construed as invasion, as a violation of property rights. So the fact that in the recent attack, the rapist was an African-American fits right in with the racist model of invasion-as-rape; just as the dark-skinned Iraqis stole the Western corporations' possession, a rape is the theft of rich white men's property, since regardless of the woman's race, white men

metaphor, the university, in its own little war against the southside of the fact that the university doesn't offer a single free course in women's self-defense.

Finally, we get the message that-Lie #5 only women are the victims of violence. I have to give the Daily Callous some credit for this one, too. Hoyt Sze, best known for an inept attempt at satire ( "Why

EDUCATION IS A RIGHT FIGHT FIGHT FIGHT

If California was a country, it would be the sixth wealthiest in the world. Yet unlike comparably wealthy nations, where education is provided free at all levels and financial incentives are offered to encourage students to remain in schools, education in California is rapidly becoming a privilege available only to the wealthy.

Even before the present budget crisis California's record in public education, as in other social programs, reflected the priorities of those in power. Nationally, California ranked 45th in the financing of public schools and California students received 400 dollars less each than the national average. Nearly a third of all students and a half of all Blacks and Latinos were dropping out prior to graduation. Now, instead of addressing the root cause of the budget deficit, as of 4/6/91 estimated at $12.5 billion, which is insufficient taxation of corporations and the wealthy, Wilson plans to slash state spending to already dismally funded social programs and impose a regressive taxation system to be borne by those least able to afford it.

STUDENTS AT CUNY FIGHT BACK!

His planned cut of $2.2 billion for public education will mean that $9 thousand less will be spent on each classroom and that California students will now receive $700 less than the national average. Three thousand teachers have already been laid off in the San Francisco Unified School District alone, with junior teachers being the first to go. Since younger teachers are more ethnically diverse, students will be left with a largely old, white and unenthusiastic teacher population—a situation which is made worse by the fact that salaries for bilingual teachers were amongst the first casualties of the cuts. Not only is this blatant is as callous as George Bush's exploitation of the Amnesty International report on Iraq's human-rights abuse. Yeah, sure, Bush cares about human rights- take a look at his chums in China and El Salvador. Yeah, sure, the university cares about a woman's safety- take a look at the incidents of police brutality at, most recently and ironically, the International Women's Day rally.

Continued on p. 7

The claim that the university development-mongers are making is simple- Lie #3 the southside community is dangerous to innocent people's safety, so it has to be crushed. This assertion is implicit in statements such as that found on March 8 in the administration's mouthpiece, the Daily Cal. UC cop Pat Carroll is quoted on the front page as saying, " There is a large population with a lot of students and tourists that are potential victims. And there are a lot of individuals in the area (who) prey on them." In other words, those with money are vulnerable innocents while those who aren't funnelling money into the university are violent parasites. Even more appalling is Carroll's incredible claim that tourists are part of the campus population. If cash is what buys citizenship and rights, then it becomes frighteningly clear that the "individuals not from the area" are those who don't have the cash to buy protection from the UCPD thugs, namely, the homeless citizens of Berkeley.

As if this weren't enough, the Daily Cal repeatedly and unquestioningly spreads the distorted statistic implicating the People's Park area in many of the violent crimes on the Southside reported last year. Yeah, the park's homeless community is involved in lots of violent crimes- but they are the victims. And who commits those crimes? You guessed it: a bunch of innocent vulnerable rich hate-consumed students and the cops hired to

I Hate Affirmative Action") earlier in the semester, interviewed five women to find out how they felt about rape. This in spite of the fact that men can be, and have been raped on campus, too. And where was the interview with five homeless men after Hank Dacek, a homeless man, was beaten to death on campus on New Year's Eve? Where was the interview with five frat boys after the recent string of Greek deaths? The exclusive focus on rape of women denies both that women can be victims of violence other than rape and that men can't be the victims of violence at all. Queer-bashing, I guess, either doesn't happen or it isn't important in the dominant framework. Maybe because it's not a property crime. And meanwhile rich, white men can feel safe roaming the streets— after all, the cops are there for their protection. —BY A SURVIVOR

IN THIS ISSUE.

RAPE
WAR UPDATE
PEOPLE'S PARK
ALERT
FEE HIKES
QUEER
EL SALVADOR

SEXIST SLINGSHOT

After weeks of growing frustration with the (un)collective process, the women of Slingshot met and realized that they had all been having problems with the men for similar reasons. The Women's Issue of last October was supposed to be a change, it was a result of the women's demand for change; but just three months and two issues later, the women found themselves back to square one. Tired of waiting for changes and guiding men through their attempts to avoid sexism, the women took over the agenda during a regular Slingshot meeting to confront the men on their sexist bullshit. At this meeting the women said that they would no longer participate in Slingshot until some major changes were made.

So basically the women presented a new agenda, which included confronting men on their sexism and demanding that the process of the collective be radicalized. Women did not like the fact that they had to be overly loud and verbose in meetings, that they were uncomfortable walking into a room full of men, that their criticisms and other input were not being taken seriously, that men were not dealing with sexism and heterosexism in articles and leaving women to write about 'women's issues,' that new women were joining

Slingshot and leaving after one issue, that women were excluded by male camaraderie, and the list goes on. It was clear that we could not continue "business as usual" until we dealt with women's demands first, and until radical structural and attitude changes were made, both short and long term.

Up until this point we had all been operating on an unspoken and rather ignorant assumption that because we were working on a radical paper, issues such as sexism, racism, classism and heterosexism wouldn't effect us. As the women began discussing their experiences, this assumption was exposed. This was not something we could let slide by. Now we feel that it is important to discuss our experience, as it is definitely not unique, and you will see why we haven't been publishing lately.

The women all spoke out about their feelings, and asked for a response. The men met several times and realized that they don't take women's criticisms seriously, men verbally and physically excluded women from every aspect of the collective: at meetings, in the computer room, at the light table, in the office, etc.... Some of the many ideas that the men came up with were that men needed to call each other on sexist behavior and openly receive those criticisms and that the production process needed to be stopped until severe structural changes were made. When confronted with the women's anger, many men responded with an often typical male response - defensiveness. Even some who felt what the women were doing was important expressed defensiveness in varying degrees. Some men felt that the women were trying to take over Slingshot, and others expressed anger and frustration that production was being stopped. Both responses showed that the men hadn't really understood what the women had voiced, that the process had already been flawed by sexism within the collective.

Finally the collective worked more with these issues, and decided as a whole to make space in each meeting for discussion of collective process and dynamics as well as to slow down the production process to include talking in depth about each article before it's printed. The men would continue to meet and discuss sexism, and they made a commitment to acknowledge women, to take their input seriously, and to incorporate sexism and heterosexism into their articles, etc.... We entirely stopped production in order to come up with ways of restructuring our collective process. The main tenet of our new production process is to take things much more slowly, thereby allowing time to evaluate our interactions while they are occurring. We feel it is important to keep in mind that the process is as important as the product. Now, each meeting of the collective begins with time to talk about issues concerning our process. These issues include such things as sexism, racism, exclusion, alienation, group dynamics, etc... We are also spending more time discussing submitted articles as a group. There are many advantages to doing this, including the fact that women's criticisms are heard by the whole group and can thus be taken more seriously. Finally, each person is making a effort to tell others exactly what kind of work s(he) is doing for the collective.

Despite the success of these changes, things are far from ideal. Some of the men's responses to the women's concerns were absolutely disgusting and unacceptable (as described above). When this anger was brought up during a meeting there was a lot of alienation of both men and women, and several men dropped out of the Slingshot collective. There is also a great deal of fear among the women as to whether this renewed interest in the fight against sexism will actually last.

We know that we aren't alone in experiencing this problem. There is a progression towards male domination that exists in many organizations. It manifests itself in many different ways. When confronted with it, as a 'culture' we are taught to be defensive, and to fall back on 'socialized conditioning' as an excuse, rather than addressing the forces that create sexism, that allow men to take over and think that nothing is wrong.

Nevertheless, the suggestions about sexism we have incorporated seem to be effective within the collective so far. In addition they leave room for more long term changes. However we will have to reserve final judgement.

the Slingshot Collective

This issue of Slingshot includes an account of the problems that we have been having with sexism within our collective. Some people will no doubt say that we should not go public with our dirty laundry. They might say that there are enough hostile forces (cops, infiltrators, provocateurs) trying to divide 'the movement' without us doing it ourselves. We feel, as a collective, that the problems that we have been having are prevalent throughout the left, and that our experiences should be shared as part of a movement wide dialogue.

If we are ever going to develop a truly radical revolutionary movement, we need to begin by creating institutions and groups that embody the society that we envision. One of my favorite quotes (I don't know who said it) is "The only way to wage a successful evaluating our personal interactions and behaviors, and how they relate to the structures we are trying to overcome.

Patriarchy is one of the major cornerstones of the military-corporate system that we suffer under. For the most part, the left has mimicked the patriarchal, as well as white supremacist and heterosexist, relationships of the system that we profess to oppose. We have adopted, rather than subverted, many of the personal relationships and power structures of the larger society.

As a white man this means that I need to confront my own sexism, and racism constantly. As a queer it means not tolerating heterosexist behavior and attitudes. It is good that so much of the left is being forced to deal with this shit, and it is bad that it was so necessary. If we can begin to create an anti-racist, anti-sexist, anti-heterosexist movement,

SLINGSHOT

Slingshot is a sometimes monthly published student/community radical newspaper. The views expressed herein sexism and heterosexism in articles and leaving women to write about 'women's issues,' that new women were joining room, at the light table, in the office, etc.... Some of the many ideas that the men came up with were that men needed to call each other interactions while they are occurring. We feel it is important to keep in mind that the process is as important as the product. Now, each think that nothing is wrong.

Nevertheless, the suggestions about sexism we have incorporated seem to be effective within the collective so far. In addition they leave room for more long term changes. However we will have to reserve final judgement.

the Slingshot Collective

This issue of Slingshot includes an account of the problems that we have been having with sexism within our collective. Some people will no doubt say that we should not go public with our dirty laundry. They might say that there are enough hostile forces (cops, infiltrators, provocateurs) trying to divide 'the movement' without us doing it ourselves. We feel, as a collective, that the problems that we have been having are prevalent throughout the left, and that our experiences should be shared as part of a movement wide dialogue.

If we are ever going to develop a truly radical revolutionary movement, we need to begin by creating institutions and groups that embody the society that we envision. One of my favorite quotes (I don't know who said it) is "The only way to wage a successful revolution is to live as if you have already won." This means constantly evaluating our personal interactions and behaviors, and how they relate to the structures we are trying to overcome.

Patriarchy is one of the major cornerstones of the military- corporate system that we suffer under. For the most part, the left has mimicked the patriarchal, as well as white supremacist and heterosexist, relationships of the system that we profess to oppose. We have adopted, rather than subverted, many of the personal relationships and power structures of the larger society.

As a white man this means that I need to confront my own sexism, and racism constantly. As a queer it means not tolerating heterosexist behavior and attitudes. It is good that so much of the left is being forced to deal with this shit, and it is bad that it was so necessary. If we can begin to create an anti- racist, anti- sexist, anti- heterosexist movement, then, and only then, can we talk about revolution.

LETTERS

Sisters and brothers of Slingshot,

Thanks for sending me the 'shots- I really enjoys 'em and am glad the East Bay has gotten such a fine alternative to read! You have done much to brighten my days in here, and I hope you continue to publish. Your efforts are really worthwhile.

My name is James, and I am a 32 year old unaffiliated anarchist who is currently doing time in one of King George's gulags. I figure I'm just paying my dues for allowing this government to exist for so long. I'm getting out in about a year; waking up from this Orwellian nightmare and I plan on devoting a lot of my energies in furthering the cause of Anarchy- something I really believe in. I don't want anyone to go through the experiences I have gone through. To me, this means the elimination of the tyranny we call authority! It's been 'zines like yours that have kept me going in here. The government hasn't succeeded in breaking me and 'institutionalizing' my soul. For this I'm grateful.

Your articles on wimmin's issues were both entertaining and enlightening and warmly received. Living in a male dominated atmosphere it's really easy to pick up some fucked- up attitudes concerning women. Prison is/ or can be a real hotbed for sexist, racist,

FROM BEHIND ENEMY LINES

machines for possible use over in the Middle East.

Actually, this idea of theirs isn't particularly new- having prisoners working exploiting labor for the military/ industrial complex was accomplished a while back by Stalin and Hitler. I've gotten a closer look at this 'new world order' while being in this federal prison- it's welcome to the gulags, welcome to the U.S.S.A.!

I've been doing some artwork in my spare time and if you are interested I could send you some. Much of what I'm doing now involves my recent studies in Japanese minimalism- very soothing. I was doing a lot of angry, alienated stuff when I first got in here. I'm a lot happier now. I liked much of the drawings I saw in Slingshot- especially the one titled 'U.S. Out Of My Uterus!' which I thought was very well done and carried a heavy message.

I would be interested in learning more about anarchy-feminism, so if you know anyone who would be interested in corresponding with me on this subject or any others related to Anarchism, I would sure

Greetings Comrades and Friends at Slingshot

I come to you through this letter bereft of all material possessions. The best years of my early manhood have been taken from me by a Legal System, which practices a dual standard of justice — one standard for the rich and another more stringent standard for the poor.

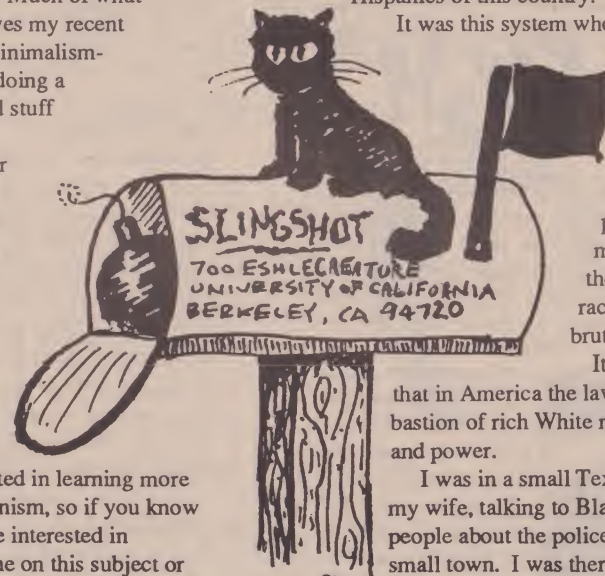

This nation prides itself as a nation ruled by laws, not men. But men specifically government assassins (Police) have launched this racist attack on the poor, Black and Hispanics of this country.

It was this system who framed me for a crime I did not commit, because I advocated that Blacks, Hispanics and poor people must defend themselves from racist police brutality.

It is clear to me, that in America the law is essentially a bastion of rich White male privilege and power.

I was in a small Texas town with my wife, talking to Blacks and poor people about the police brutality in this small town. I was there only about three months, when I was beginning to

SLINGSHOT

Slingshot is a sometimes monthly published student/community radical newspaper. The views expressed herein always are the opinion of their authors and often have something to do with the views of the collective. Two important things:

1. Slingshot has now been in print for Three Years! We are sort of proud of ourselves for this. Thank you.

2. Although the war against Iraq proved what an evil and pathetic entity the mainstream press is, it is obvious that nobody has put three and three together to figure out that the alternative press needs money to do what we do. We are TOTALLY BROKE AGAIN. We had to borrow money from our staff (again) to put this issue out. PLEASE SEND US YOUR MONEY!

The ASUCK gives us a piddling $400/year. Because of that, we are forced to print:

*This publication is not an official publication of the Associated Students of the University of California Berkeley. The views expressed herein are the views of the writers only. They are not necessarily the views of the University of California nor the University of California Berkeley.

We meet every Sunday at 7:00pm at our office at 612 Eshleperson Hall on UC Campus. We are looking for new people to work on Slingshot this Summer & next Fall (as many of the staffpeople are splitting). Artists, writers, production folks, people with attitudes, whoever, come to our disorientation meeting Sunday May 5, 7:00pm.

April 28, 1991

Circulation: 5,000 Vol 1. No. 42

All events wheelchair accessible

Mailing Address: 700 Eshleman Hall
Berkeley, CA 94720

LETTERS

Sisters and brothers of Slingshot,

Thanks for sending me the 'shots- I really enjoys 'em and am glad the East Bay has gotten such a fine alternative to read! You have done much to brighten my days in here, and I hope you continue to publish. Your efforts are really worthwhile.

My name is James, and I am a 32 year old unaffiliated anarchist who is currently doing time in one of King George's gulags. I figure I'm just paying my dues for allowing this government to exist for so long. I'm getting out in about a year; waking up from this Orwellian nightmare and I plan on devoting a lot of my energies in furthering the cause of Anarchy- something I really believe in. I don't want anyone to go through the experiences I have gone through. To me, this means the elimination of the tyranny we call authority! It's been 'zines like yours that have kept me going in here. The government hasn't succeeded in breaking me and 'institutionalizing' my soul. For this I'm grateful.

Your articles on wimmin's issues were both entertaining and enlightening and warmly received. Living in a male dominated atmosphere it's really easy to pick up some fucked-up attitudes concerning women. Prison is/ or can be a real hotbed for sexist, racist, homophobic attitudes. After reading one article in particular- 'How to Fuck Without Raping,' I realized I still have a lot to learn about women's feelings and need to read more material from a women's perspective. Thanks for the reality check!

Part of my 'rehabilitation' for committing 'crimes' against this government is working here at the factory- a government-run corporation called Unicor. The government's idea of providing us with marketable job skills is having us assemble electronic cables for the Defense Department at 19 cents an hour!! I've been working overtime since January supplying cables for jets, tanks and other war machines for possible use over in the Middle East.

FROM BEHIND ENEMY LINES

Actually, this idea of theirs isn't particularly new- having prisoners working exploiting labor for the military/ industrial complex was accomplished a while back by Stalin and Hitler. I've gotten a closer look at this 'new world order' while being in this federal prison- it's welcome to the gulags, welcome to the U.S.S.A.!

I've been doing some artwork in my spare time and if you are interested I could send you some. Much of what I'm doing now involves my recent studies in Japanese minimalism- very soothing. I was doing a lot of angry, alienated stuff when I first got in here. I'm a lot happier now. I liked much of the drawings I saw in Slingshot- especially the one titled 'U.S. Out Of My Uterus!' which I thought was very well done and carried a heavy message.

I would be interested in learning more about anarcha-feminism, so if you know anyone who would be interested in corresponding with me on this subject or any others related to Anarchism, I would sure appreciate it. I've also just recently gotten into the collected works of the S.I (the Situationist International)- the Situationists Debard, Vaneigem and the gang. Anyone who could give me some insight into this thought would be welcome.

In any event, thank you Slingshot for giving me several hours of pleasurable reading. I wish you continued success in your endeavors- keep up the resistance!

In Solidarity @
James Armstrong
$04617-051
Federal Correction Institution
Box 1000 Oxford, WI 53952-1000

Greetings Comrades and Friends at Slingshot

I come to you through this letter bereft of all material possessions. The best years of my early manhood have been taken from me by a Legal System, which practices a dual standard of justice — one standard for the rich and another more stringent standard for the poor.

This nation prides itself as a nation ruled by laws, not men. But men specifically government assassins (Police) have launched this racist attack on the poor, Black and Hispanics of this country.

It was this system who framed me for a crime I did not commit, because I advocated that Blacks, Hispanics and poor people must defend themselves from racist police brutality.

It is clear to me, that in America the law is essentially a bastion of rich White male privilege and power.

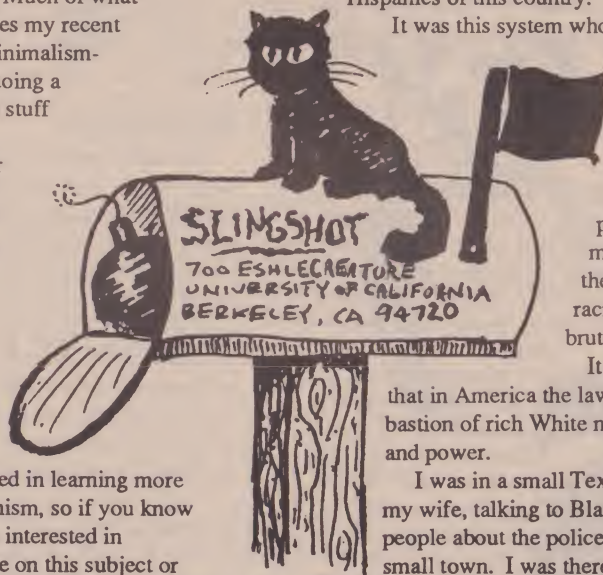

I was in a small Texas town with my wife, talking to Blacks and poor people about the police brutality in this small town. I was there only about three months, when I was beginning to be stopped at regular intervals. It seemed like every day, until one day I was out, talking to a few friends of mine and the cops "rode down" on me, saying I'd just robbed a jewelry store.

Man, I had nine witnesses saying I had been with them all day... Guess how many came to court? Zero.

My false imprisonment was not a mistake. It was part of a concerted police effort to silence me and instill fear in people I talked to. My six years and five month ordeal is an intentional act of political repression that hides behind the mask of law enforcement.

I do not believe that it is an oversimplification to say that the courts, police and prosecutorial agencies of this state (Texas)

Armed & Dangerous

of the collective. Two important things:
1. Slingshot has now been in print for Three Years! We are sort of proud of ourselves for this. Thank you.

2. Although the war against Iraq proved what an evil and pathetic entity the mainstream press is, it is obvious that nobody has put three and three together to figure out that the alternative press needs money to do what we do. We are TOTALLY BROKE AGAIN. We had to borrow money from our staff (again) to put this issue out. PLEASE SEND US YOUR MONEY!

The ASUCK gives us a piddling $400/year. Because of that, we are forced to print:

This publication is not an official publication of the Associated Students of the University of California Berkeley. The views expressed herein are the views of the writers only. They are not necessarily the views of the University of California nor the University of California Berkeley.

We meet every Sunday at 7:00pm at our office at 612 Eshleperson Hall on UC Campus. We are looking for new people to work on Slingshot this Summer & next Fall (as many of the staffpeople are splitting). Artists, writers, production folks, people with attitudes, whoever, come to our disorientation meeting Sunday May 5, 7:00pm.

April 28, 1991
Circulation: 5,000 Vol 1. No. 42
All events wheelchair accessible

Mailing Address: 700 Eshleman Hall
Berkeley, CA 94720

are fearful of African Americans in general and particularly of African Americans who are assertive and demand recognition of their humanity.

Were I a slick, silk-suited gangster or an undercover drug dealer, the wheels of justice would have turned swiftly for me. Perhaps the media would have turned me into a folk hero besieged by a frustrated law enforcement establishment. But I am not a White male gangster. I am Black, radical and a revolutionary, who's for solidarity for us all. I am strong and outspoken, and the unfortunate victim of this "lowdown" system.

For a long time, African Americans, cont. on p. 7

This is a letter to men who have sex with women. This is a letter about intercourse. This is a letter to men who assume that the woman/women they are fucking want to be fucked with their dicks. This is a letter written by women who sometimes like penetration (with and without penises) but don't like being fucked (or fucked over) by the power dynamic.

This letter is about sex and about rape. Many men and some women see sex and rape as absolutely different. However, we have had sex that has been both emotionally and physically uncomfortable which the man in question thought was fine/fun. We've been raped by acquaintances/lovers who have never thought of it as rape. Positive sex and rape are on a continuum of communication, consent, and desire.

Understanding how your behavior affects where a given sexual encounter with a woman falls on this continuum involves understanding where the woman is coming from. Obviously, sex does not occur in a vacuum. There are not just two people involved; there are two people with their histories and experiences, which are most fundamentally gendered.

Men need to acknowledge the given power inequality in sex between women and men, and how that makes women vulnerable in sex, and especially in intercourse. This vulnerability is based on her history of a full range of experiences with men, not just sexual experiences with lovers. These include the obvious - rape and incest - but also include daily harassment on the streets and at work, exploitation of our bodies in the media, bad experiences with male doctors, the fear and confusion of our mothers' and fathers' reactions to our getting our periods and our first experiences of sexuality...

Many women are strong, centered, and horny, and have real issues around penetration and sex with men because of our life experiences. We don't see ourselves as victims. But no matter how grounded we are, men have potential to push a sexual encounter towards the fucked-up side of the continuum.

Maybe we need to say here that to change the situation, not only do men have to change their behavior in bed, but in the world. However, overthrowing the patriarchy is beyond the scope of this article, so we'll limit ourselves here to what you do do all these things. It's your responsibility. However, here are some basic tips:

First a brief rap about lingo: We are using the word intercourse to mean heterosexual vaginal-penile contact. Fuck can mean any ized to not be assertive about sex, including not talking about it.

- tell the truth about STD's you have or are being treated for.

- take responsibility for contraception, which women have historically done, and recognize that intercourse always carries the risk of pregnancy.
- use lube
- be aware that 80% of women don't have orgasms from intercourse alone.

- communicate about comfortable positions for the woman. Many men know nothing about a woman's anatomy. Clits and cervixes can be sources of discomfort as well as pleasure.

- it's not physically impossible to have your hand on the woman's clit during intercourse.

- some women experience more stimulation if their legs are together between a man's spread legs.

- try having sex with men or getting anally penetrated yourself to start to broaden your experience.

- you don't have to have intercourse at all to have good sex.

Do men really think intercourse is the greatest thing since sliced bread? Some men have told us they don't think so. Are there other men who feel the same way but continue to uphold the myth? Interesting question...

Remember, the revolution against patriarchy will not be waged in bed alone.

However, neither can its presence in bed be ignored any longer. This article is meant in all seriousness. If you don't think so, consider this: a lot of you (not only a lot of your friends) have raped a lot of us and still don't know it.

Don't continue raping us out of ignorance and denial.

- REPRINTED BY NECESSITY

HOW TO FUCK WITHOUT RAPING

raunchy sex act, sometimes meaning penetration with or without a penis. Sex is anything and everything (for example, a good spanking can be sex). Penetration sometimes happens with a dick, sometimes not.

- don't assume you're not sexist.

- don't assume that sex is intercourse.

- do assume that intercourse always has the potential to be problematic.

- always communicate specifically about intercourse;

i.e. ask, so the woman has the opportunity to say no.

by Blue Cohosh, Fuchsia Fringe and L.R.A.

in bed. Dealing with the things we mentioned above requires emotional openness and awareness. It requires willingness to be creative and flexible. It requires two-way communication and an understanding of non-phallogentric sex. We can't tell you how to

- notice if the woman is crying (yes, we're actually serious).

- safer sex is your responsibility. If you expect her to bring it up (or hope that she doesn't), you are taking advantage of the unequal power dynamic. Women are social-understanding where the woman is coming from. Obviously, sex does not occur in a vacuum. There are not just two people involved; there are two people with their histories and experiences, which are most fundamentally gendered.

THE KILLERS • CAUGHT BETWEEN TYRANTS

Men need to acknowledge the given power inequality in sex between women and men, and how that makes women vulnerable in sex, and especially in intercourse. This vulnerability is based on her history of a full range of experiences with men, not just sexual experiences with lovers. These include the obvious - rape and incest - but also include daily harassment on the streets and at work, exploitation of our bodies in the media, bad change the situation, not only do men have to change their behavior in bed, but in the world. However, overthrowing the patriarchy is beyond the scope of this article, so we'll limit ourselves here to what you do

• do assume that intercourse always has the potential to be problematic.

• always communicate specifically about intercourse;

i.e. ask, so the woman has the opportunity to say no.

have good sex.

Do men really think intercourse is the greatest thing since sliced bread? Some men have told us they don't think so. Are there other men who feel the same way but continue to uphold the myth? Interesting question...

Remember, the revolution against patriarchy will not be waged in bed alone.

However, neither can its presence in bed be ignored any longer. This article is meant in all seriousness. If you don't think so, consider this: a lot of you (not only a lot of your friends) have raped a lot of us and still don't know it.

Don't continue raping us out of ignorance and denial.

- REPRINTED BY NECESSITY

by Blue Cohosh, Fuchsia Fringe and L.R.A.

in bed. Dealing with the things we mentioned above requires emotional openness and awareness. It requires willingness to be creative and flexible. It requires two-way communication and an understanding of non-phallogentric sex. We can't tell you how to

• notice if the woman is crying (yes, we're actually serious).

• safer sex is your responsibility. If you expect her to bring it up (or hope that she doesn't), you are taking advantage of the unequal power dynamic. Women are social-

THE KURDS: CAUGHT BETWEEN TWO TYRANTS

Recently, headlines across the United States have decried the plight of Iraq's Kurdish population. Every day, the front pages are filled with stories about the mass-exodus of Kurds into Turkey and Iran. Not surprisingly, Saddam Hussein is portrayed as the main force behind Kurdish oppression.

Diverting attention away from Western imperialism as a primary factor in the Kurdish plight, the cover of a major U.S. news weekly featured a picture of a starving Kurdish family with the headline 'Saddam's Latest Victims.' It should have said, 'U.S.' latest victims- Again' Much like the Palestinians, the Kurds have long been a homeless population. When the Ottoman Empire was carved up by Europe, the Kurds were denied their land. Instead, Kurdistan (where the Kurds had been living) was divided between Iraq, Iran, Syria, and Turkey, leaving the Kurdish populations thoroughly disenfranchised, and relegated to ethnic minority status in each of these countries. The Kurds have long been fighting for self-determination, and have waged a long, and sometimes brutal struggle for autonomy, particularly in Turkey, and Iraq, where the majority of Kurds live.

George's sudden interest in the Kurds is not out of any love for the Kurdish people. In fact, he and the United States government have likewise demonstrated their willingness to sacrifice the Kurds- and many others- for their own interests. During the Nixon administration, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, as a favor to the Shah of Iran, approved CIA covert support for the creation of a Kurdish uprising in Iraq. The U.S. goal wasn't for the rebellion to succeed. Instead, it was to aid the Shah in the weakening of Saddam Hussein and his Ba'athist ruling party. When it became clear the Hussein was willing to use any force at his disposal to suppress this uprising, the U.S. abandoned the rebellion it created, and sacrificing the lives of much of the Kurdish population. (This is all well documented in the unpublished, secret Pike Report that has been unearthed through the Freedom of Information Act)

If this all sounds familiar, it should. The above scenario is eerily similar to the most recent Kurdish uprising. After the U.S.'s vicious slaughter of Iraq, George Bush made a widely reported call for Saddam Hussein's overthrow. He wanted Saddam out of power, but for Iraq to remain whole. With U.S. support, simultaneous rebellions were launched by the Kurds in Northern Iraq, and Shiites in Southern Iraq in the hopes that some sort of military coup (by the Iraqi army or the Ba'athist Party) over Saddam's rule would occur. Despite early successes, where both forces were able to capture several major cities and control huge chunks of Iraq, Hussein was able to thoroughly crush both rebellions. Thus, it became apparent that promoting rebellion was not going to be an effective tactic for ousting Saddam, and support for the national liberation struggle of the Kurds was dropped. Pleas for U.S. help from leaders of both uprisings were ignored.

In fact it was only after a major international outcry over the

This must be a fashion,
this pulling girls off their walk,
putting them in vans
to rape them for 5 hours
or 12
early in the evening at about 5
or 7
and I've always felt immune
but there's a tacit curfew now
so last night I went to the movies at 9 to see Silence of the Lambs
with 2 men I know
and it was loud and overdramatized
with one scene
of a girl getting lured
into a van
by a man who'd have made the skin off her back into a dress
if he hadn't gotten caught
as if these fuckers who brutalize us
are frustrated transsexuals
with nipple piercings
and not just the lowest
most insidious scum
that we see every day
in the most understated way.
People told me to see

Recently, headlines across the United States have decried the plight of Iraq's Kurdish population. Every day, the front pages are filled with stories about the mass-exodus of Kurds into Turkey and Iran. Not surprisingly, Saddam Hussein is portrayed as the main force behind Kurdish oppression.

Diverting attention away from Western imperialism as a primary factor in the Kurdish plight, the cover of a major U.S. news weekly featured a picture of a starving Kurdish family with the headline 'Saddam's Latest Victims.' It should have said, 'U.S.' latest victims- Again' Much like the Palestinians, the Kurds have long been a homeless population. When the Ottoman Empire was carved up by Europe, the Kurds were denied their land. Instead, Kurdistan (where the Kurds had been living) was divided between Iraq, Iran, Syria, and Turkey, leaving the Kurdish populations thoroughly disenfranchised, and relegated to ethnic minority status in each of these countries. The Kurds have long been fighting for self-determination, and have waged a long, and sometimes brutal struggle for autonomy, particularly in Turkey, and Iraq, where the majority of Kurds live.

Nowadays, while George Bush is busy denouncing Saddam's treatment of the Kurds, he has conveniently forgot how the U.S.'s own foreign policy has caused equal suffering and death for the Kurdish people. Both Saddam and George are guilty of utilizing a dispossessed people for their own political ends. Unfortunately, it is the Kurds who are stuck in the middle.

Although there is some debate about who was responsible for particular incidents of chemical attack- some evidence points to Iran on more than one occasion- there is no doubt that Hussein used chemical weapons to suppress Iraq's Kurdish population. There should be no debate as well, that this was an unjustifiable, and horrific act. Likewise there can be little doubt that Saddam Hussein is a ruthless and brutal dictator, who has repeatedly demonstrated his willingness to use any means to destroy his opposition, both internally (the Kurds, Iraq's majority Shiite population, The Iraqi Communist Party) and externally (the Iran-Iraq war, the invasion of Kuwait). Nevertheless, we must not allow George Bush to propagandize on Iraqi aggression, making himself look like the good guy in the process.

TWO TYRANTS

George's sudden interest in the Kurds is not out of any love for the Kurdish people. In fact, he and the United States government have likewise demonstrated their willingness to sacrifice the Kurds- and many others- for their own interests. During the Nixon administration, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, as a favor to the Shah of Iran, approved CIA covert support for the creation of a Kurdish uprising in Iraq. The U.S. goal wasn't for the rebellion to succeed. Instead, it was to aid the Shah in the weakening of Saddam Hussein and his Ba'athist ruling party. When it became clear the Hussein was willing to use any force at his disposal to suppress this uprising, the U.S. abandoned the rebellion it created, and sacrificing the lives of much of the Kurdish population. (This is all well documented in the unpublished, secret Pike Report that has been unearthed through the Freedom of Information Act)

If this all sounds familiar, it should. The above scenario is eerily similar to the most recent Kurdish uprising. After the U.S.'s vicious slaughter of Iraq, George Bush made a widely reported call for Saddam Hussein's overthrow. He wanted Saddam out of power, but for Iraq to remain whole. With U.S. support, simultaneous rebellions were launched by the Kurds in Northern Iraq, and Shiites in Southern Iraq in the hopes that some sort of military coup (by the Iraqi army or the Ba'athist Party) over Saddam's rule would occur. Despite early successes, where both forces were able to capture several major cities and control huge chunks of Iraq, Hussein was able to thoroughly crush both rebellions. Thus, it became apparent that promoting rebellion was not going to be an effective tactic for ousting Saddam, and support for the national liberation struggle of the Kurds was dropped. Pleas for U.S. help from leaders of both uprisings were ignored.

In fact it was only after a major international outcry over the devastation of the Kurdish population that the U.S. continued providing any aid to the refugees. This international response has caught the U.S. in its own web of capitalizing on the plights of other peoples. The U.S. military, the originators of the hype, have responded by letting it be known that they are in charge, and that they will not tolerate anyone not submitting to that control. They railroaded a U.N. plan for a sanctuary region for the Kurds, and have reneged on pledges for aid. The American press has, of course, portrayed George and the U.S. Military as the benign saviors of a Kurdish population devastated by the evils of Saddam Hussein. The U.S. murder of 300,000 in Iraq is given yet even more justification.

It is obvious that neither Saddam or George alone are responsible for the refugee status of the Kurdish population. Rather, the Kurds have been exploited by the political play-offs of both dictators. This capitalization of refugee people must be exposed in order to empower Kurdish self-determination, not to feed the political egos of our government officials.

PAGE by Paul & Liz
3

This must be a fashion,
this pulling girls off their walk,
putting them in vans
to rape them for 5 hours
or 12
early in the evening at about 5
or 7
and I've always felt immune
but there's a tacit curfew now
so last night I went to the movies at 9 to see Silence of the Lambs
with 2 men I know
and it was loud and overdramatized
with one scene
of a girl getting lured
into a van
by a man who'd have made the skin off her back into a dress
if he hadn't gotten caught
as if these fuckers who brutalize us
are frustrated transsexuals
with nipple piercings
and not just the lowest
most insidious scum
that we see every day
in the most understated way.
People told me to see
Silence of the Lambs
because it's so scary
but it didn't scare me because I know when someone gets it like we're getting it all the time in the most humiliating way there's no loud bass dolby to warn us
and there's no fine cinematography which so inspires some of the fuckers who probably saw that dumb movie
to grab some girl, some woman and rape the fuck out of her
Does that turn you on?

Now That It's Spring

by Blue Corosh

there is true evil in the world it seeps in around the edges of my mind
at random times,
and when I don't pay attention actively to how I live...
I don't know how it moves around the earth
if it runs or jumps or flies or creeps and hedges-

be clean and sharp
there is something rancid, soft.
It decays further: I doubt myself.
Doubt my wisdom, my judgement,
my perception,
my right to ignore what happened, my right not to reconcile with someone who has dishonored me, dishonored himself.
A man such as this I'll not have in my house.
But how do I get him OUT of my heart?

Yes, I know sometimes it jumps on me from behind a tree
a stranger
yes and this is worse sometimes it sneaks into my intimate space in the arms of my lover closer until it
springs free/grips me by surprise:
a hand over my mouth a hand in my cunt.

Do you see how this affects me when I have my legs open to you my heart open to you in my most vulnerable-ness
yet
I should have doubted an old lover so
I am doubting myself now.
how can I trust myself to be free
with myself and with you?

This is death and destruction of my heart.
This leaves a place in my heart rotting
like the vegetation under a long winter snow.
When spring breaks and all should

do you see
do you see
do you see
do you see
why, at the edge of orgasm,
I cry?

Several activities are happening to rectify the People's Park situation:

People's Park Defense Union:

A new organisation that meets every week at 4 PM in People's Park. This group deals with ongoing networking, crisis response, and articulating a radical position on current People's Park issues.

May 19th, Sunday:

A gathering of the people in defense of People's Park. A day of protest, direct action and solidarity with all the political, social, cultural, and human rights movements of the world, working for peace and social justice.

This is the traditional day of observance of the 1969 riot in which James Rector was slain by the Alameda County sheriffs. The past two years have seen large street upheavals, forcefully suppressed by mutual aid police forces from all over the East Bay. This year a day of music and fun in the park

UC's Plans for People's Park

Slingshot sources have information for People's Park. The plan is to take the grass of the Park into the future. They plan to begin construction soon. UC Plans also include a "committee" designed to project the future of the Park. In fact the UC will have 100% control of the Park.

The lease stipulates that a committee regarding People's Park. Both the UC and the USE (Use, Standards, and Enforcement) members to the USE (Use, Standards, and Enforcement) committee will be made up of students, school teachers, and community members. The committee will have no power. They will evaluate the success and analyze the results. Chancellor Tien and the University have produced a plan. As can be expected, liberal and conservative (UC, City Council, City representatives), are clamoring for the lease. The lease was officially signed March 22

"status quo," but now the City reimburses the University for its "fair share" of Park upkeep expenses.

Here is the proposed plan that the University has thought

of:

- courts will cover 40% of the grassy (UC owned) portion of the Park
- the courts will be off-limits to nonstudents from 10-4pm daily.
- the courts are surrounded by a 8'-12' chain link fence, to "protect the Park"
- the courts are to be dug into Park, at a depth of up to 18'.
- there will be on-site managers for the hours that the Park is open.
- toilets will cover the area where the Free Box stands. Toilets are ok — but homeless folks and Park users object to toilets at the "gateway" to the Park.
- as of now, no Free Box or stage are in UC's plans. The stage, if any, would be moved up to the east end of the Park.
- the UC emphasizes that their plan is a result of negotiation with the community and homeless people. We don't know any homeless persons who have negotiated with the UC.
- UC wants the Park developed by the time Fall classes start, meaning construction is to begin early this Summer.

HOW THE CITY WAS COERCED INTO ACCEPTING UC'S

SECRET PARK

Park
 uncovered UC Berkeley's undisclosed plans an includes tearing up and transforming half into fenced basketball and volleyball courts.
 ruction in early Summer, when students are ude the formation of a powerless "advisory oject a facade of "user development" when in control over every aspect of Park Policy.
 a commission be formed to discuss the rules
 both the University and city will assign 9 ndards and Evaluation) advisory committee. It hool officials and community members, but the
 They are only commissioned to discuss rules,
 They are not designing or planning anything, and have veto power over any recommendations they liberals among Park "supporters" (i.e. People's Park ing to get themselves onto the USE committee.
 22. They current management policy has been that of

This is People's Park where tattooed fighters planted rose tattoos and roses grew blood red.

It's not a peaceful place.
 The vines are tangled with our nerves.
 Grass untidy as a drunks beard.
 Trees grow shopping carts.
 Bushes grow sleeping bags.
 Lilys-of-the-valley smoke cigarettes
 they just bummed, but with such style.
 Here are sunflowers that'll steal your backpack when your not looking,
 daises crooked as game booths at the circus and violets sticking out their impudent purple tongues.

Or is that us?
 I don't know. It doesn't matter.
 When people come to Berkeley they always ask to see People's Park and when I show it to them
 they don't see it.
 Next time
 I'm going to walk them a few blocks, watch their faces and try to explain.
 Instead, I'll show them my hands.
 "Here is People's Park," I'll say.
 "Here."

JAMES RECTOR
1945 - 1969

"...James Rector
 saw the policeman
 aiming at his face.
 He turned his back and began to run; he was too late. Three pellets caught him in the lower left back,

(broadcasted over KPFB) and decided to occupy the City building overnight. About 75 stayed, presenting a list of demands, including a call to rescind the Lease vote, a public hearing on the Park (there have been none), and user development of the Park. Michael Brown, the City Manager, came up with an idea not on our list, COPS!!!! Eight people were arrested and taken to jail for the evening, charged with rioting!

A few weeks later, the Regents, as expected, voted to approve the lease. The also took the liberty of changing it to give them full veto power on anything having to do with the Park. Many of them simultaneously expressed their "druthers"(i.e. wishes) that student housing be built on the park. (Do you have to know anything to become a regent?)

SITUATION STILL BLEAK FOR SOUTHSIDE HOMELESS

Berkeley's Southside continues to face the wrath of UC Cops. While all the students were on Winter break, Chancellor Tien directed his cops to go to People's Park and remove the Free Box. Now we are talking about a box that people donate clothes in, not a terrorist center in the middle of the Park. The Free Box has been around for over 20 years to provide warm clothing and blankets for people who need them.
 So the Cops took the box, and the people rebuilt it. And

by Julia Vinegrad

This is death and destruction of my heart.
 This leaves a place in my heart rotting like the vegetation under a long winter snow.
 When spring breaks and all should
 I am doubting myself now.
 how can I trust myself to be free
 with myself and with you?
 do you see
 do you see
 do you see
 do you see
 why, at the edge of orgasm,
 I cry?

Several activities are happening to rectify the People's Park situation:

People's Park Defense Union:

A new organisation that meets every week at 4 PM in People's Park. This group deals with ongoing networking, crisis response, and articulating a radical position on current People's Park issues.

May 19th, Sunday:

A gathering of the people in defense of People's Park. A day of protest, direct action and solidarity with all the political, social, cultural, and human rights movements of the world, working for peace and social justice.

This is the traditional day of observance of the 1969 riot in which James Rector was slain by the Alameda County sheriffs. The past two years have seen large street upheavals, forcefully suppressed by mutual aid police forces from all over the East Bay. This year a day of music and fun in the park is scheduled, along with speak out and direct action within the park.

Summer of Resistance:

As the situation draws toward confrontation, both sides look at the summer, when most students, and many other concerned people, will be out of town. The University has stated that its sports courts will be operational by the beginning of the fall semester.

We need your help- join us this May, June, July, whenever it happens. There will be bulldozers, fences, and cops- and need hundreds, thousands of people to stand firm in defense of People's Park. Only by uniting will we SAVE THE PARK!

Freedom lovers, hippies, artists, poets, homeless persons, parents, disabled, anti-americans, radicals, musicians, wayfarers, anarchists, freaky-types, dispossessed, disgruntled, people with attitudes, whoever you are, wherever you are, COME TO PEOPLE'S PARK THIS SUMMER!

Columbus Day (Oct. 12), 1992, will mark 500 years of oppression and genocide against Native American people.

Large-scale organizing is under way by the Native American community (including all the Americas) to counter the so-called "celebration" that is being planned here in the Bay Area establishment. According to Bob Castillo of the International Indian Treaty Council (IITC), "the Bay Area will be alive with indigenous activity and protest." Natives from all the Americas will descend upon San Francisco in '92 for their own type of "celebration."

For more information, contact the IITC at:

710 Clayton Street
 San Francisco, CA 94117
 (415) 566-0251

will be made up of students, school members to the USE (Use, Stand, committee will have no power. To evaluate the success and analyze. The Chancellor Tien and the University might produce. As can be expected, lib Council, City representatives), are clamoring The lease was officially signed March 22

"status quo," but now the City reimburses the University for it's "fair share" of Park upkeep expenses. Here is the proposed plan that the University has thought

of:

- courts will cover 40% of the grassy (UC owned) portion of the Park
- the courts will be off-limits to nonstudents from 10-4pm daily.
- the courts are surrounded by a 8'-12' chain link fence, to "protect the Park"
- the courts are to be dug into Park, at a depth of up to 18'.
- there will be on-site managers for the hours that the Park is open.
- toilets will cover the area where the Free Box stands. Toilets are ok — but homeless folks and Park users object to toilets at the "gateway" to the Park.
- as of now, no Free Box or stage are in UC's plans. The stage, if any, would be moved up to the east end of the Park.
- the UC emphasizes that their plan is a result of negotiation with the community and homeless people. We don't know any homeless persons who have negotiated with the UC.
- UC wants the Park developed by the time Fall classes start, meaning construction is to begin early this Summer.

HOW THE CITY WAS COERCED INTO ACCEPTING UC'S LEASE

When the City Council voted on the lease the first time, they passed it with amendments proposed by the People's Park Council. These amendments guaranteed that the Free Box, the bulletin board, and the stage would not be removed, and also that a volleyball court would be either a sandpit or just poles in the ground, NOT CONCRETE. These seemed reasonable enough, but not to Tien. The word from the University was "rubber stamp the lease or else..." The UC sent the lease back, with veiled threats to build dorms on the Park — even though UC won't have the funds to do that for at least 5 years. Apologizing for the inconvenience, the City Council went back the next week and meekly approved the original lease, as they were told.

After they voted, however, the entire City Council was forced to flee after angry Park supporters, a hundred strong, stormed the council chambers and took over the meeting. It was quite a spectacle. Once the Councilmembers left their seats, they weren't able to return. The people carried on a meeting to veto power over any recommendations they berals among Park "supporters" (i.e. People's Park ng to get themselves onto the USE committee.

22. They current management policy has been that of (broadcasted over KPFB) and decided to occupy the City building overnight. About 75 stayed, presenting a list of demands, including a call to rescind the Lease vote, a public hearing on the Park (there have been none), and user development of the Park. Michael Brown, the City Manager, came up with an idea not on our list, COPS!!!! Eight people were arrested and taken to jail for the evening, charged with rioting!

A few weeks later, the Regents, as expected, voted to approve the lease. The also took the liberty of changing it to give them full veto power on anything having to do with the Park. Many of them simultaneously expressed their "druthers"(i.e. wishes) that student housing be built on the park. (Do you have to know anything to become a regent?)

SITUATION STILL BLEAK FOR SOUTHSIDE HOMELESS

Berkeley's Southside continues to face the wrath of UC Cops. While all the students were on Winter break, Chancellor Tien directed his cops to go to People's Park and remove the Free Box. Now we are talking about a box that people donate clothes in, not a terrorist center in the middle of the Park. The Free Box has been around for over 20 years to provide warm clothing and blankets for people who need them.

So the Cops took the box, and the people rebuilt it. And the cops took it again, and the people rebuilt it and stood vigil by it all night for two weeks. In total six boxes were built, the last one remaining intact. The University finally gave in allowing the box to stay, if it remained clean. The problem is that they get to define clean.

The Cops have already reverted back to taking people's possessions. On February 7, UC Cops came in and took anything that people were not sitting on or holding. By law they are obligated to hold it for 30 days to allow people time to claim it. The reality is that the cops throw the stuff away, claiming it is trash!

The new People's Park lease includes wonderful tidbits including the possibility for both UC and Berkeley Cops to patrol the park. The plan for improvements in the park allots up to $300,000 a year. Obviously some of this money will go for recreational facilities, but will the rest be to provide

CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT

watch the Instead, I'll show the
"Here is People's Park," I'll say,
"Here."

JAMES RECTOR
1945 - 1969

"...James Rector saw the policeman aiming at his face. He turned his back and began to run; he was too late. Three pellets caught him in the lower left back, and he crumbled onto the roof..."

NAVAL WEAPONS STATION
REDECORATED
by John Henry

A "legal demonstration and civil disobedience" at Concord Naval Weapons Station sponsored by the Pledge of Resistance burst into a spontaneous direct action festival, as participants buried cardboard coffins, spray painted everything, walked further onto the base than activists ever had at a demonstration, and disabled a section of railroad track.

The Concord Naval Weapons Station, about twenty miles northeast of Berkeley, is where munitions are shipped all over the Pacific Ocean area, and is the source of many shipments to the Middle-East. Near the main gate of the base, munitions cross a road, called Port Chicago Highway, on route from the base to the Naval docks on Suisan bay. Protests have been conducted there since the Viet-Nam war. During a protest against U.S. policy in Central America on Sept. 1, 1987, activist Brian Willson lost both his legs below the knee when the navy tried to run a loaded munitions train through a non-violent blockade. A few days later, 10,000 people demonstrated at the tracks, and the tracks at the crossing were torn from their bedding. Since that time, for almost four years, a 24 hour blockade has persisted at the Port Chicago crossing.

The February 16 demonstaton against the Persian Gulf war started with a march down Port Chicago highway, past a small group of counterdemonstrators. Banners represented a wide spectrum of the anti-war movemnet, including a large group from QUENCH, the anti-war focus group of Queer Nation. Food Not Bombs served food as many at the conclusion of the march. As demonstators arrived at the Weapon Station front lawn, some persons marched to the front gate of the station for the scheduled trespassing civil disobedience. As many demonstators stayed at the gate, without arrest or threat of arrest, the focus of the demonstration, that is, the sound system and speakers, was moved near the gate.

As this was happening, many people were hanging leaflets all overe the fence, and digging holes to place coffins. An unbelievable spraypainting session followed, as people of all ages painted sysbols and slogans over the entire parking lot, the bus shelter, and the front wall.

Surrounded by fences on one side and a crowd listening to speeches on the other, a large group of people started to work on the infamous tracks. People used loose railroad ties as crowbars, and attempted to use various other local objects as tools.. As the speeches ended, the workers succeeded in disconnecting a section of rail.

The crowd came together and marched to their vehicles. No one was arrested that day.

WELFARE

eager to portray welfare recipients as cheats, and this front-just plays up this stereotype.
example of class-based ines and loan

summer, when most students, and many other concerned people, will be out of town. The University has stated that its sports courts will be operational by the beginning of the fall semester.

We need your help- join us this May, June, July, whenever it happens. There will be bulldozers, fences, and cops- and need hundreds, thousands of people to stand firm in defense of People's Park. Only by uniting will we SAVE THE PARK!

Freedom lovers, hippies, artists, poets, homeless persons, parents, disabled, anti-americans, radicals, musicians, wayfarers, anarchists, freaky-types, dispossessed, disgruntled, people with attitudes, whoever you are, wherever you are, COME TO PEOPLE'S PARK THIS SUMMER!

Columbus Day (Oct. 12), 1992, will mark 500 years of oppression and genocide against Native American people.

Large-scale organizing is under way by the Native American community (including all the Americas) to counter the so-called "celebration" that is being planned here in the Bay Area establishment. According to Bob Castillo of the International Indian Treaty Council (IITC), "the Bay Area will be alive with indigenous activity and protest." Natives from all the Americas will descend upon San Francisco in '92 for their own type of "celebration."

For more information, contact the IITC at:

710 Clayton Street
San Francisco, CA 94117
(415) 566-0251

Despite over two years of police repression of Food Not Bombs, culminating in attempts to prosecute two activists for serving free food, Food Not Bombs not only thrives in San Francisco, but is spreading to other communities. New Food Not Bombs organizations have sprouted in the East Bay and in Santa Rosa, where Food Not Bombs activists were involved in a student/homeless takeover of a vacant building, involving 11 arrests.

Food Not Bombs organizes the distribution of free food to the homeless and anyone else who needs a free meal, and provides nutritional support for local political gatherings. The connections between the decay of social well-being and the growth of militarism are communicated by Food Not Bombs actions. Food is always distributed conspicuously in public places, drawing attention to the presence of hunger in this society and encouraging an atmosphere of sharing. This creates a widespread consciousness of mutual aid.

FOOD NOT BOMBS
EAST BAY

PAGE 4

East Bay Food Not Bombs has been serving food in Lafayette Park in downtown Oakland and in People's Park. More locations are being experimented with, and a regular weekly schedule will be developed shortly.

Weekly meetings are held at 8:00 PM every Tuesday at various locations. Volunteers, food, large pots and pans, money, and anything else are needed. Call 644-4187 to help or for more information.

Stephen

time, they passed it with amendments proposed by the People's Park Council. These amendments guaranteed that the Free Box, the bulletin board, and the stage would not be removed, and also that a volleyball court would be either a sandpit or just poles in the ground, NOT CONCRETE. These seemed reasonable enough, but not to Tien. The word from the University was "rubber stamp the lease or else..." The UC sent the lease back, with veiled threats to build dorms on the Park — even though UC won't have the funds to do that for at least 5 years. Apologizing for the inconvenience, the City Council went back the next week and meekly approved the original lease, as they were told.

After they voted, however, the entire City Council was forced to flee after angry Park supporters, a hundred strong, stormed the council chambers and took over the meeting. It was quite a spectacle. Once the Councilmembers left their seats, they weren't able to return. The people carried on a meeting intact. The University finally gave in allowing the box to stay, if it remained clean. The problem is that they get to define clean.

The Cops have already reverted back to taking people's possessions. On February 7, UC Cops came in and took anything that people were not sitting on or holding. By law they are obligated to hold it for 30 days to allow people time to claim it. The reality is that the cops throw the stuff away, claiming it is trash!

The new People's Park lease includes wonderful tidbits including the possibility for both UC and Berkeley Cops to patrol the park. The plan for improvements in the park allots up to $300,000 a year. Obviously some of this money will go for recreational facilities, but will the rest be to provide

CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT

THE NEW AND IMPROVED PEOPLE'S PARK!

NAVAL WEAPONS STATION
REDECORATED
by John Henry

A "legal demonstration and civil disobedience" at Concord Naval Weapons Station sponsored by the Pledge of Resistance burst into a spontaneous direct action festival, as participants buried cardboard coffins, spray painted everything, walked further onto the base than activists ever had at a demonstration, and disabled a section of railroad track.

The Concord Naval Weapons Station, about twenty miles northeast of Berkeley, is where munitions are shipped all over the Pacific Ocean area, and is the source of many shipments to the Middle-East. Near the main gate of the base, munitions cross a road, called Port Chicago Highway, on route from the base to the Naval docks on Suisan bay. Protests have been conducted there since the Viet-Nam war. During a protest against U.S. policy in Central America on Sept. 1, 1987, activist Brian Willson lost both his legs below the knee when the navy tried to run a loaded munitions train through a non-violent blockade. A few days later, 10,000 people demonstrated at the tracks, and the tracks at the crossing were torn from their bedding. Since that time, for almost four years, a 24 hour blockade has persisted at the Port Chicago crossing.

The February 16 demonstration against the Persian Gulf war started with a march down Port Chicago highway, past a small group of counterdemonstrators. Banners represented a wide spectrum of the anti-war movement, including a large group from QUENCH, the anti-war focus group of Queer Nation. Food Not Bombs served food as many at the conclusion of the march. As demonstrators arrived at the Weapon Station front lawn, some persons marched to the front gate of the station for the scheduled trespassing civil disobedience. As many demonstrators stayed at the gate, without arrest or threat of arrest, the focus of the demonstration, that is, the sound system and speakers, was moved near the gate.

As this was happening, many people were hanging leaflets all over the fence, and digging holes to place coffins. An unbelievable spraypainting session followed, as people of all ages painted symbols and slogans over the entire parking lot, the bus shelter, and the front wall.

Surrounded by fences on one side and a crowd listening to speeches on the other, a large group of people started to work on the infamous tracks. People used loose railroad ties as crowbars, and attempted to use various other local objects as tools. As the speeches ended, the workers succeeded in disconnecting a section of rail.

The crowd came together and marched to their vehicles. No one was arrested that day.

WELFARE

An Oakland mother of two was arrested last week for alleged "welfare fraud." She is accused of receiving welfare checks and food stamps for her family under two different names during the last two years. She is facing felony charges and it is likely that she will do some time in prison.

Her case, and photo, was featured prominently on the metro page of the Tribune. The welfare department was thrilled to announce the arrest, because it "vindicates" their having spent upwards of $200,000 on the creation of a Welfare Fraud Unit of the county Welfare Department. This comes at a time when welfare payments and services are being severely cut. The welfare department is always eager to portray welfare recipients as cheats, and this front-page article just plays up this stereotype.

FRAUD?

In this case lies a vivid example of class-based standards within the legal system: A savings and loan executive can only be charged with felony fraud if the amount stolen is more than $250,000. A welfare mother who cons the welfare department out of only $2,000 will face the same charges (and you can bet she'll be the one to go to jail).

For more info on injustices in the welfare system, and info on how to fight it, call the Women's Economic Agenda Project (WEAP) at 451-7379.

PAGE 5

onto the roof..."

PEOPLE'S PARK ALERT

UC's Plans for People's Park

Slingshot sources have uncovered UC Berkeley's undisclosed plans for People's Park. The plan includes tearing up and transforming half of the grass of the Park into fenced basketball and volleyball courts. They plan to begin construction in early Summer, when students are gone. UC Plans also include the formation of a powerless "advisory committee" designed to project a facade of "user development" when in fact the UC will have 100% control over every aspect of Park Policy.

The lease stipulates that a commission be formed to discuss the rules regarding People's Park. Both the University and city will assign 9 members to the USE (Use, Standards and Evaluation) advisory committee. It will be made up of students, school officials and community members, but the committee will have no power. They are only commissioned to discuss rules, evaluate the success and analyze. They are not designing or planning anything, and Chancellor Tien and the University have veto power over any recommendations they might produce. As can be expected, liberals among Park "supporters" (i.e. People's Park Council, City representatives), are clamoring to get themselves onto the USE committee.

The lease was officially signed March 22. Their current management policy has been that of

"status quo," but now the City reimburses the University for its "fair share" of Park upkeep expenses.

Here is the proposed plan that the University has thought of:

- courts will cover 40% of the grassy (UC owned) portion of the Park
  - the courts will be off-limits to nonstudents from 10-4pm daily.
- courts are surrounded by a 8'-12' chain link fence, to "protect the Park" up to 18'.

urs that the Park is open.

Box stands. Toilets are ok — but homeless folks and Park users object to C's plans. The stage, if any, would be moved up to the east end of the result of negotiation with the community and homeless people. We have negotiated with the UC.

me Fall classes start, meaning construction is to begin early this

HOW THE CITY WAS COERCED INTO ACCEPTING UC'S LEASE

When the City Council voted on the lease the first time, they passed it with amendments proposed by the People's Park Council. These amendments guaranteed that the Free Box, the bulletin board, and the stage would not be removed, and also that a volleyball court would be either a sandpit or just poles in the ground, NOT CONCRETE. These seemed reasonable enough, but not to Tien. The word from the University was "rubber stamp the lease or else..." The UC sent the lease back, with veiled threats to build dorms on the Park — even though UC won't have the funds to do that for at least 5 years. Apologizing for the inconvenience, the City Council went back the next week and meekly approved the original lease, as they were told.

(broadcasted over KPFB) and decided to occupy the City building overnight. About 75 stayed, presenting a list of demands, including a call to rescind the Lease vote, a public hearing on the Park (there have been none), and user development of the Park. Michael Brown, the City Manager, came up with an idea for our list, COPS!!!! Eight people were arrested and taken to jail for charged with rioting!

A few weeks later, the Regents, as expected, voted to liberty of changing it to give them full veto power on anything of them simultaneously expressed their "druthers" (i.e. wishes) park. (Do you have to know anything to become a regent?)

SITUATION STILL BLEAK FOR SOUTHSIDE HOME

Berkeley's Southside continues to face the wrath of UC. Winter break, Chancellor Tien directed his cops to go to Box. Now we are talking about a box that people donate in middle of the Park. The Free Box has been around to provide warm clothing and blankets for people who need. So the Cops took the box, and the people rebuilt it. And the cops took it again, and the people rebuilt it and stood vigil by it all night for two weeks. In total six boxes were built, the last one remaining intact. The University finally gave in allowing the box to stay, if it remained clean. The problem is that they get to define clean.

The Cops have already reverted back to taking people's possessions. On February 7, UC Cops came in and took anything that people were not sitting on or holding. By law they are obligated to hold it for 30 days to allow people time to claim it. The reality is that the cops throw the stuff away, claiming it is trash!

The new People's Park lease includes

NAVAL CREDE

Resistan
taneous
than acti

over the cross a conduct Willson few day time, fo

University for its fair share of Park upkeep expenses.

Here is the proposed plan that the University has thought

of:

- courts will cover 40% of the grassy (UC owned) portion of the Park

- the courts will be off-limits to nonstudents from 10-4pm daily.

- the courts are surrounded by a 8'-12' chain link fence, to "protect the Park"

Park, at a depth of up to 18'.

rs for the hours that the Park is open.

ere the Free Box stands. Toilets are ok — but homeless folks and Park users object to the Park.

age are in UC's plans. The stage, if any, would be moved up to the east end of the r plan is a result of negotiation with the community and homeless people. We persons who have negotiated with the UC.

ed by the time Fall classes start, meaning construction is to begin early this Summer.

HOW THE CITY WAS COERCED INTO ACCEPTING UC'S LEASE

When the City Council voted on the lease the first time, they passed it with amendments proposed by the People's Park Council. These amendments guaranteed that the Free Box, the bulletin board, and the stage would not be removed, and also that a volleyball court would be either a sandpit or just poles in the ground, NOT CONCRETE. These seemed reasonable enough, but not to Tien. The word from the University was "rubber stamp the lease or else..." The UC sent the lease back, with veiled threats to build dorms on the Park — even though UC won't have the funds to do that for at least 5 years. Apologizing for the inconvenience, the City Council went back the next week and meekly approved the original lease, as they were told.

After they voted, however, the entire City Council was forced to flee after angry Park supporters, a hundred strong, stormed the council chambers and took over the meeting. It was quite a spectacle. Once the Councilmembers left their seats, they weren't able to return. The people carried on a meeting building overnight. About 75 stayed, presenting a list of demands, including a call to rescind the Lease vote, a p hearing on the Park (there have been none), and user devel the Park. Michael Brown, the City Manager, came up with our list, COPS!!!! Eight people were arrested and taken charged with rioting!

A few weeks later, the Regents, as expected, liberty of changing it to give them full veto power. of them simultaneously expressed their "druthers" park. (Do you have to know anything to become a park. Now we are talking about a box that p

SITUATION STILL BLEAK FOR SOUTHSIDE

Berkeley's Southside continues to face the Winter break, Chancellor Tien directed his o Box. Now we are talking about a box that p middle of the Park. The Free Box has been provide warm clothing and blankets for people So the Cops took the box, and the people rebuilt the cops took it again, and the people rebuilt it stood-vigil by it all night for two weeks. In tota six boxes were built, the last one remaining intact. The University finally gave in allowing the box to stay, if it remained clean. The problem is that they get to define clean.

The Cops have already reverted back to taking people's possessions. On February 7, UC Cops came in and took anything that people were not sitting on or holding. By law they are obligated to hold it for 30 days to allow people time to claim it. The reality is that the cops throw the stuff away, claiming it is trash!

The new People's Park lease includes wonderful tidbits including the possibility for both UC and Berkeley Cops to patrol the park. The plan for improvements in the park allots up to $300,000 a year. Obviously some of this money will go for recreational facilities, but will the rest be to provide spicuously in public of hunger in this society. This creates a been serving food in in People's Park. More a regular weekly

CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT

PM every Tuesday at s and pans, money, o help or for more

Coming soon...
PEOPLE'S MALL

THE NEW AND IMPROVED
PEOPLE'S PARK!

QUEER DEBATE

article brought up. First, the origin of the title is a little convoluted, but, although I never intended it as the headline, I will

Despite the title of the recent article in Slingshot, I still feel compelled for some odd reason to keep in touch with the paper. I guess I believe that there are a lot of readers of Slingshot who would really get into East Bay Queer Nation if they gave it a chance, and I also wish more queer 'leftists' and anarchists would come out and stand up for queer issues. This is a challenge to all of you. Come out, come out wherever you are, we need you and you need us!!!

By the way, the actual contents of the article entitled, "Queer is Not Enough," were quite thought-provoking and interesting, and were spoken by someone who sounded like sort of a peripheral insider who really had the best interests of the community in mind. Nothing in the article referred to the arrogant assertion that, "Queer is Not Enough," and it has been rumored that the title was added by some members of the editorial staff.

Anyway, to whomever originated the title, I just want you to know, no, it wasn't funny or cute, it was homophobic, and if you guys want to keep your queer readership you better cut that shit pronto. None of the queer people thought it was funny or clever, they all thought what I think, which is that as sure as the left is sexist and racist, it's homophobic too, and we're sick of putting energy into your publications when you use ours to wipe your asses with.

As someone who had just taken what I saw as sort of a risk by writing an article in the "Women's," issue of Slingshot entitled, "Queer," which was basically a personal account of what it's like to be queer in this area, the title, "Queer is Not Enough," appearing in the following ("men's"? ) issue struck me as pretty insensitive if not an outright attack. And I think that if you guys want a queer readership, you ought to think about the fact that the title itself was extremely homophobic- where the hell does a straight paper get off telling us what is and what isn't, "enough,"? - but also on top of that it looked like a reference to the article that I wrote, which was written in an attempt to point out the insidious ways in which the Berkeley scene promotes violent queer- bashing.

In hopes that there are still some people reading this who know that queer is what they are, and who don't give a shit if someone thinks that's not "enough" here are our upcoming events:

Regular meetings of East Bay Queer Nation are Monday Night at 6:30 at the Brick Hut Cafe, which is at 3222 Adeline Ave. in Oakland. All queer identified people (and their children) are welcome. This space is wheel chair accessible

LIQ US (Lesbian Identified Queers Uprooting Sexism), the

women's focus group of East Bay Queer Nation, has started meeting every Sunday night at 6:30 at the Pacific Center, 2712 Telegraph Ave. in Berkeley. We are just starting out, and we welcome all queer- identified women, despite the title, which is clever but not inclusive (our first big discussion was whether we should change it to include the word bisexual and that discussion continues).

Some of our other focus groups are an Outreach Committee, and a Media Outrage Committee (which is working on the Blockbuster thing and has been flying Silence of the Lambs), QUENCH (Queers United to End Needless Carnage Hastily) an anti- war group that has been a clear and visible contingent at some of the anti- war demos- most recently the one at the Concord Naval Weapons Station, and a few other focus groups which meet sporadically to deal with things that come up. We are always ready to start new focus groups and welcome input from any queers who want to come in and make something happen.

We are planning an action in response to the fact that Blockbuster Video is censoring NC-17 movies, because of pressure from fundamentalist groups who threaten to boycott if they didn't take them off the shelves. (Many of the films are so rated because they have explicit gay sexual themes.) We haven't figured out what we're doing yet, so the sooner you get involved, the sooner we can make the kind of fun, rowdy action you want. We have also been asked by some gay students at UCB to do a couple of much needed actions there.

Some of us are working with a coalition called Copwatch to address police violence against minority groups. Also we seem to be interacting more and more with CUAV (Community United Against Violence).

If you want any more information, and/or want to hear a very succinct explanation about what the group is about, please call the East Bay Queer Nation Hotline: 464-3072.

In closing, I would like to say that I am writing this as one individual who is a member of East Bay Queer Nation and who wants to put out some info. that I know to the Slingshot readership, not as any kind of representative of the group.

by S. Smith

Response: As the author of the article, "Queer Is Not Enough," I feel that I need to answer some of the questions that this take responsibility for it. The term, 'queer,' has certain connotations to me, that go beyond Lesbian, Gay, and Bisexual identity. I never made these connotations clear in the article, and left an unfortunate amount of ambiguity. As for the contents of the article, due to technical errors, the first draft of my article appeared in the paper, which was quite different from the final draft. Personally, I have a lot of problems with the article, as it appeared, but that is neither here nor there for this issue.

Where I diverge with the author is on her contention that 1- Slingshot is a straight paper, and that 2- we are out of touch with the queer community. Most of the present staff of Slingshot are queer. As I am fairly new to both the Bay Area, and to Slingshot, I have to plead ignorance of Slingshot's past relationship with the queer community. When I first got involved with Slingshot I was impressed with it's queerness. That is part of why I wrote the article (Here I need to be fair to Queer Nation East Bay, because most of what I wrote about QN was in relationship to QN New York, and that was made clear in the final version of the article) I think that Slingshot is in touch with the queer community, or I should say a queer community. Several of our members have been involved in queer activism, including both QN and ACT-UP, for some time. I do not feel that it was us telling you anything. I feel that, as a member of the queer community, I was addressing the very real problems with queer activism, and the queer community.

Slingshot is not an expressly queer paper, we're not expressly much, and I definitely feel that Sunshine Smith's criticisms of us should be taken seriously. Recently we have been struggling with our identity, and trying to deal with our shit (see related article). This includes, dealing better with queer issues. I for one want to see Slingshot become queerer.

I also want to be very clear that the title, "Queer is not Enough," was not an attack, nor even a reference to Sunshine Smith's, "Queer" article. At the time I wrote my article, I hadn't even read that article. We are now operating on a more collective basis, especially in regards to editorial decisions- like headlines- so such an oversight hopefully will be avoided in the future.

Finally, I want to apologize to anyone who felt that the title was homophobic. It was meant to challenge the queer community to deal with its sexism, is racism, and its classism, just as Slingshot needs to deal with these issues, as well as it's heterosexism. Stay Queer.

what it's like to be queer in this area, the title, "Queer is Not Enough," appearing in the following ("men's"? issue struck me as pretty insensitive if not an outright attack. And I think that if you guys want a queer readership, you ought to think about the fact that the title itself was extremely homophobic- where the hell does a straight paper get off telling us what is and what isn't, "enough,"? but also on top of that it looked like a reference to the article that I wrote, which was written in an attempt to point out the insidious ways in which the Berkeley scene promotes violent queer- bashing.

In hopes that there are still some people reading this who know that queer is what they are, and who don't give a shit if someone thinks that's not " enough" here are our upcoming events:

Regular meetings of East Bay Queer Nation are Monday Night at 6:30 at the Brick Hut Cafe, which is at 3222 Adeline Ave. in Oakland. All queer identified people (and their children) are welcome. This space is wheel chair accessible called CPUSA to address police violence against minority groups. Also we seem to be interacting more and more with CUAV ( Community United Against Violence).

LIQ US ( Lesbian Identified Queers Uprooting Sexism), the

If you want any more information, and/or want to hear a very succinct explanation about what the group is about, please call the East Bay Queer Nation Hotline: 464-3072.

In closing, I would like to say that I am writing this as one individual who is a member of East Bay Queer Nation and who wants to put out some info. that I know to the Slingshot readership, not as any kind of representative of the group.

by S. Smith

Response: As the author of the article, "Queer Is Not Enough," I feel that I need to answer some of the questions that this

...probably much, and I definitely feel that Sunshine Smith's criticisms of us should be taken seriously. Recently we have been struggling with our identity, and trying to deal with our shit ( see related article). This includes dealing better with queer issues. I for one want to see Slingshot become queerer.

I also want to be very clear that the title, "Queer is not Enough," was not an attack, nor even a reference to Sunshine Smith's, "Queer" article. At the time I wrote my article, I hadn't even read that article. We are now operating on a more collective basis, especially in regards to editorial decisions- like headlines- so such an oversight hopefully will be avoided in the future.

Finally, I want to apologize to anyone who felt that the title was homophobic. It was meant to challenge the queer community to deal with its sexism, is racism, and its classism, just as Slingshot needs to deal with these issues, as well as it's heterosexism. Stay Queer.

Why we DESTROYED IRAQ

It has been said that empires in decline provide bread and circuses as diversions for the population to turn them away from the internal rot, but this time around it's going to be the circus of the Gulf War, as bread becomes increasingly scarce for many. Viewed from the vantage point of Detroit, this becomes evident when General Motors and Ford announce their largest quarterly loss in history and GM plans closings for nine auto plants, laying off tens of thousands of workers. Or, when the Salvation Army in Detroit has 3,000 people standing in line on a bitterly cold morning hopelessness for what the future augurs. Even the U.S. life expectancy rate has dropped continuously over the last four years as AIDS health care budgets have been continuously cut.

As it is, income distribution, heavily skewed to begin with by racial considerations, saw the top 20% of U.S. households gain wealth by 14% in the 1980s whereas those in the bottom 80% stayed the even. These figures, though belie an increase in poverty among the lowest rung of famthey owned no assets. Overall white households had an average networth of $43,280, a figure ten times the average of black and hispanic families. (Figures are from the government General Accounting Office.)

As I write, the smoke of battle lifting in the Persian Gulf, but only barely. The Kuwaiti oil wells burn unchecked. Even as the wreckage created by the great imperial war machine waiting for food baskets, one knows the poor will not be part of the New World Order except as its barely maintained wards.

THE WAR AGAINST IRAQ: VIEW FROM THE STREETS

However, amidst the wreckage, the richest stands exposed, the image of the great destroyer is giving way to another phase of the capitalist cycle—reconstruction.

American and international corporations are

Justice For Janitors!!!!

In the late afternoon of Friday, April 5th, the janitors who clean the offices in the Student Union, and the sports building staged a one hour work stopage. They are currently in contract negotiations with International Service Systems, a huge janitorial contractor, who hold a contract from ASUC. The workers' contact with SSI ran out on March 31st, when they rejected a ISS offer which only granted 65 cents worth of raises over three years. Currently, janitors make on average $5.35 hr., with very minimal benefits. This past week (4-7-91) ISS issued a new offer that a union rep, described as 'even worse' than the old offer. The union that represents the janitors- the Service Employees International Union Local 1877- is formulating a strategy that will increase pressure on ISS, while minimizing their workers' risk of losing their jobs.(As their rep. told me, "There are a lot of people willing to take their jobs.").

The workers here are in a tough spot. The decline in strength of the labor movement- due to the brutal repression during the Ragan Years, coupled with the capitulation of the entrenched labor bureaucracy has left the working class, particularly people of color and women- in an increasingly vulnerable position. The strikers outside of Eshleman were all people of color, and mostly women. Their struggle is compounded by the racist and sexist nature of all of american society- including the working class, and especially mainstream unions.

Contract negotiations are at a stand still. This issue goes well beyond ASUC. ISS holds contracts with huge multi- nationals like Bank of America and Chevron- both riding high off of the slaughter for oil. Although ISS pays the workers, it is the contractors like ASUC and BOA who have the most control over the wages. Pressure needs to be exerted at the source- that means ASUC in this case- to grant these workers a living wage and basic benefits. We must stand in solidarity with the janitors.

EL SALVADOR

by DARLENE

Things are heating up in El Salvador. Right now the most important round of peace talks is taking place between the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN)

It has been said that empires in decline provide bread and circuses as diversions for the population to turn them away from the internal rot, but this time around it's going to be the circus of the Gulf War, as bread becomes increasingly scarce for many. Viewed from the vantage point of Detroit, this becomes evident when General Motors and Ford announce their largest quarterly loss in history and GM plans closings for nine auto plants, laying off tens of thousands of workers. Or, when the Salvation Army in Detroit has 3,000 people standing in line on a bitterly cold morning

THE WAR AGAINST IRAQ: VIEW FROM THE STREETS

waiting for food baskets, one knows the poor will not be part of the New World Order except as its barely maintained wards.

However, amidst the wreckage, the richest sector of the population managed to increase their wealth at the expense of the working class and poor. One can almost trace percentage point by percentage point the looting of wealth from the poor by the rich as one examines the statistics of advance and decline of each class. The fact that the upper 10% only enriched themselves to the extent they did had less to do with restraint and more to do with the flight of wealth to foreign bondholders.

Also, as financial speculation replaced domestic investment and whole industries exited the industrial cities of the Northeast and Midwest for Mexico and Asia, this left a once relatively prosperous working class in a state of penury. This has produced a skyrocketing unemployment, a physical deterioration of the cities, thousands of homeless people, and a desperate sense of hopelessness for what the future augurs. Even the U.S. life expectancy rate has dropped continuously over the last four years as AIDS health care budgets have been continuously cut.

As it is, income distribution, heavily skewed to begin with by racial considerations, saw the top 20% of U.S. households gain wealth by 14% in the 1980s whereas those in the bottom 80% stayed the even. These figures, though belie an increase in poverty among the lowest rung of families they owned no assets. Overall white households had an average networth of $43,280, a figure ten times the average of black and hispanic families. (Figures are from the government General Accounting Office.)

As I write, the smoke of battle lifting in the Persian Gulf, but only barely. The Kuwaiti oil wells burn unchecked. Even as the wreckage created by the great imperial war machine stands exposed, the image of the great destroyer is giving way to another phase of the capitalist cycle—reconstruction.

American and international corporations are drooling at the prospect of multi-billion dollar contracts to repair the war damage done to Kuwait by Iraq and the U.S. Perennial war profiteer like GM and the construction giant, Bechtel, along with numerous other companies will reap a fortune in profits in the war's aftermath.

Bush's political gamble in the Persian Gulf may have a short term pay off for him and the social agenda he hopes it defines. It remains to be seen whether Lincoln's dictum stating that all of the people can't be fooled all of the time will hold true in the coming period. For those of us outside the ugly consensus of war triumphalism, never has it been more imperative to maintain our projects and our communities based on resistance to the New World Order.

—stolen and slashed from Fifth Estate (vol.26, no.1)-4632
Second Ave., Detroit, 48201

In the late afternoon of Friday, April 5th, the janitors who clean the offices in the Student Union, and the sports building staged a one hour work stoppage. They are currently in contract negotiations with International Service Systems, a huge janitorial contractor, who hold a contract from ASUC. The workers' contract with SSI ran out on March 31st, when they rejected a ISS offer which only granted 65 cents worth of raises over three years. Currently, janitors make on average $5.35 hr., with very minimal benefits. This past week (4-7-91) ISS issued a new offer that a union rep, described as 'even worse' than the old offer. The union that represents the janitors- the Service Employees International Union Local 1877- is formulating a strategy that will increase pressure on ISS, while minimizing their workers' risk of losing their jobs. (As their rep. told me, "There are a lot of people willing to take their jobs.").

The workers here are in a tough spot. The decline in strength of the labor movement- due to the brutal repression during the Ragan Years, coupled with the capitulation of the entrenched labor bureaucracy has left the working class, particularly people of color and women- in an increasingly vulnerable position. The strikers outside of Eshleman were all people of color, and mostly women. Their struggle is compounded by the racist and sexist nature of all of american society- including the working class, and especially mainstream unions.

Contract negotiations are at a stand still. This issue goes well beyond ASUC. ISS holds contracts with huge multi- nationals like Bank of America and Chevron- both riding high off of the slaughter for oil. Although ISS pays the workers, it is the contractors like ASUC and BOA who have the most control over the wages. Pressure needs to be exerted at the source- that means ASUC in this case- to grant these workers a living wage and basic benefits. We must stand in solidarity with the janitors.

EL SALVADOR by DARLENE

Things are heating up in El Salvador. Right now the most important round of peace talks is taking place between the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) and the Nationalist Republican Alliance (ARENA) in Mexico City. Meanwhile, the Bush Administration is actively working to destroy the peace accords by supporting the ultra-right fascists in El Salvador and by blocking some members of Congress' attempts to cut military aid.

General Colin Powell, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, threatened military intervention on April 9 when, according to the United Press International (UPI), he warned of the possibility of a "Persian Gulf style solution" to El Salvador's civil war if the ongoing U.N.-sponsored negotiations do not bear fruit.

The exact text of what he said is disputed. It was reported by SALPRESS, a Spanish speaking wire service, as "if necessary, it (the Salvadoran conflict) can be resolved the way it was in the Persian Gulf." However, according to the official transcript published by the Joint Chiefs of Staff he said: "We believe that in this new world order that President Bush has spoken about, the way to resolve conflicts is through negotiation, through discussion among reasonable parties, and not through acts of war. What we saw in the Persian Gulf and what was necessary to deter the aggression of Saddam Hussein, we hope is not the model to be followed. But at the same time, if it becomes necessary to defend freedom, then one must do it." He made

HOW TO FIGHT THE FEE HIKE$

Early in the morning on Monday, April 8 of this year, students at the City College of New York chained and locked themselves into the main campus building in a protest against budget cuts and tuition increases. The students called for a school wide strike. Within three days other buildings on campus were seized. The college was effectively and then officially shutdown. The students took the action to protest the proposed $500 increase in tuition and massive educational budget cuts.

City College is the Harlem campus of the City University of New York. CUNY is the third largest public school system in the United States (behind the University of California and the State University of New York). There are 21 campuses located throughout the five boroughs of New York City. CUNY consists of both four-year colleges and two-year community colleges. Prior to 1976, CUNY had a free tuition policy.

By the second week of protest, 10 other CUNY campuses were affected by student unrest and building take-overs. At four of the campuses, including the Graduate Center, students were able to completely shutdown their schools. In fact, the protests had spread outside the city. Students at Cornell University and SUNY Purchase had also shutdown buildings on their campuses because of their own budget complaints. CUNY students have also received support from labor unions and people of color communities.

The student actions at CUNY can be explained by looking at the university's demographics. Over 60% of the student body are people of color. A large number of students have full time jobs and raise families. Sixty percent of the students are women. These are not the children of the elite, nor are many of them from the middle class. They are hard working people trying to get a degree to 1989. Similar actions spontaneously occurred at several other CUNY campuses. After two weeks of protests and a rally attended by 15,000 students in downtown Manhattan, the governor backed down. The legislature "found" funds to stop the tuition increase and budget cuts.

Last year CUNY raised tuition $200 and cut staff, faculty, and services anyway despite student protests and limited direct action. This year, not only does the governor propose raising tuition an additional $500 and cutting services, he also wants to cut financial aid to needy students by $400. This would effectively make the tuition increase $900 for many students, an enormous 62% increase. The $92 million in budget cuts that are proposed will result in continued staff and faculty lay offs, fewer course offerings, larger class sizes and reductions in services.

As in previous years, students wrote letters to the governor and legislators, they rallied and lobbied in the state capital, and they proposed alternative ways of funding. The intransigence of the elected officials left the students with no alternatives. For the third time in three years, they have publicized their plight by seizing property, the only way to get attention from the power structure. This time the protests are as massive as the ones from two years ago.

Most college officials are opposed to the student activities but are reluctant to call in the New York Terrorists Department (known as the New York City Police Department). At one school however, New York City Technical College, police arrested three student protestors. In the process they beat an African American female student who is the head of the student government. At other CUNY schools the police harass student protestors by driving through campus throughout the day and night. Some students have been suspended by school administrators for their role in the take-overs. CUNY President James P. Murphy and Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds (formerly of the California State University) have taken strong stances against the student protests and are in racism, but firing teachers is also an act of extreme sexism since the majority of primary and secondary level instructors are women.

EDUCATION IS A RIGHT CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE

In Oakland and Richmond, the racist nature of the cuts is made even clearer. Here fully enrolled schools have begun closing, forcing such overcrowding that some classes have to be held in school cafeterias and auditoriums. Money is completely unavailable for such basic supplies as pens, paper and textbooks while a shortage of chairs in Oakland means that students there must sit on the floor—when space allows.

Wilson's planned cut of $224 million in Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) means that many students from single parent and low income families will essentially be denied access to what inadequate public education exists as they will be forced to join the work force. (The unequal distribution of resources along racial lines also means that children of color will be the main victims of these cuts.)

For those few who make it through the nightmare of public primary and secondary education the likelihood of admission, financial affordability and academic success at public universities will be greatly reduced.

Fees are going up by 40% at all U.C.'s, 20% at Cal State universities, and by 10% at community colleges, while at the same time affirmative action and financial aid for minorities is being reduced. Enrollment at U.C. campuses is being cut by 5500, thereby displacing at least as many onto both Cal State universities and community colleges. The effect of this will be catastrophic as both the CSU and Community Colleges are already reeling from massive cuts in faculty and classes forcing such overcrowding that one community college administrator admitted that entry into a Junior College means nothing more than "a license to hunt for classes" Since these institutions have provided access to "higher education" to those financially excluded from the U.C.'s, this too will serve to maintain universities as the exclusive domain of the rich and white. Similarly, those few services provided at universities to counter the effects of inadequate high schools and increased retention rates are being eliminated, thereby entrenching the advantages of the wealthy and privileged.

If seven major loopholes were eliminated from bank and corporation taxes, $2 billion would be raised—almost exactly what is being cut from education. These include limiting deductions for vessels and aircraft, which would generate $472 million, eliminating deductions for oil companies' research and exploration, yielding $220 million, and other such minor alterations. Similarly, if corporate taxes were raised by a mere 1%, $520 million would be generated. By restoring tax levels to 11% for those who earn more than $200,000 a year over one and a half billion dollars would become available.

While the Homeless Assistance program, which prevents families from becoming homeless, is having $39 million cut, closing the loophole for exemption for motion picture rentals would offer $46 million. Aid to Families with Dependent Children is being reduced by $225 million while reducing deductions for business meals from 80% to 50% would generate $300 million, and if business property was reassessed 4 BILLION would become available.

Wilson's argument for not closing tax loopholes and raising corporate taxes is the same lie that has been used for the last 12 years by the Republican Administration—the trickle-down theory.

Wilson's logic is made perfectly clear by his raising of what is already the largest prison budget in the history of the United States by 15% and by increasing funding for police. His intention is to protect the privileges of the elite while oppressing and imprisoning those who reclaim what their labor produced.

-by Dean

LETTERS CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2

Hispanics and poor Whites have had to beg at the backdoor of White American justice, like servants on the plantation. We have had to walk backwards into the American dream, while there's only an American nightmare to be seen.

Now I have to fight my way out of this prison, and all I really have is my integrity as a Blackman. I have that in place of cash or property. Surely it must be worth something, otherwise, why would the State gone to such costly and great lengths to try and destroy it?

By the second week of protest, 10 other CUNY campuses were affected by student unrest and building take-overs. At four of the campuses, including the Graduate Center, students were able to completely shutdown their schools. In fact, the protests had spread outside the city. Students at Cornell University and SUNY Purchase had also shutdown buildings on their campuses because of their own budget complaints. CUNY students have also received support from labor unions and people of color communities.

The student actions at CUNY can be explained by looking at the university's demographics. Over 60% of the student body are people of color. A large number of students have full time jobs and raise families. Sixty percent of the students are women. These are not the children of the elite, nor are many of them from the middle class. They are hard working people trying to get a degree to enhance their chances in a highly competitive job market. CUNY is one of the last remaining sources of a low cost college education for poor and working class people, particularly people of color. CUNY has an open admissions policy which allows any high school graduate to attend one of the campuses. This is a great opportunity for people in a city which has a high school population of mainly people of color and where a high school diploma is not a guarantee of a job.

Two years ago, due to a budget deficit, Governor Mario Cuomo proposed a $200 a year increase in the $1250 tuition on top of millions of dollars in cuts in the CUNY budget. Students lobbied the governor and the legislators to no avail. Stymied by uncaring politicians, many of whom had attended CUNY when it was free and mainly white, the students at City College seized the administration building in the spring semester of only way to get attention from the power structure. This time the protests are as massive as the ones from two years ago.

CUNY STUDENTS TAKE OVER

Most college officials are opposed to the student activities but are reluctant to call in the New York Terrorists Department (known as the New York City Police Department). At one school however, New York City Technical College, police arrested three student protestors. In the process they beat an African American female student who is the head of the student government. At other CUNY schools the police harass student protestors by driving through campus throughout the day and night. Some students have been suspended by school administrators for their role in the take-overs. CUNY President James P. Murphy and Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds (formerly of the California State University) have taken strong stances against the student protests and are in favor of suspensions. There are even threats by various CUNY administrators to cancel the entire semester at striking schools, thus pitting the student protestors against their fellow students who do not want to lose a semester's worth of work.

The students vow to continue the protest until their demands are met, including the rescinding of the tuition increase, the restoration of financial aid, and the reversal of budget cuts.

Perhaps students at other public campuses around the nation affected by tuition increases and budget cuts should follow the lead of the students of CUNY. When lobbying and letter writing fail, when politicians refuse to tax the wealthy and corporations, and when students are made to feel powerless, perhaps they need to take matters into their own hands. Remember, "Education is a Right, Fight, Fight, Fight."

by A. student

officials left the students with no alternatives. For the third time in three years, they have publicized their plight by seizing property, the

Fees are going up by 40% at all U.C.'s, 20% at Cal State universities, and by 10% at community colleges, while at the same time affirmative action and financial aid for minorities is being reduced. Enrollment at U.C. campuses is being cut by 5500, thereby displacing at least as many onto both Cal State universities and community colleges. The effect of this will be catastrophic as both the CSU and Community Colleges are already reeling from massive cuts in faculty and classes forcing such overcrowding that one community college administrator admitted that entry into a Junior College means nothing more than "a license to hunt for classes" Since these institutions have provided access to "higher education" to those financially excluded from the U.C.'s, this too will serve to maintain universities as the exclusive domain of the rich and white. Similarly, those few services provided at universities to counter the effects of inadequate high schools and increased retention rates are being eliminated, thereby entrenching the advantages of the wealthy and privileged.

Despite the glaringly obvious racist nature of these cuts in education, Wilson and his backers have refused to consider raising taxes for corporations and the wealthy, any attempt at which the governor says he will veto.

Instead he is calling for increased taxes on candy!, alcohol, newspapers, snack foods and renters, all of which fall most heavily on lower and middle class taxpayers.

When comparing the revenue that would be raised from closing the loopholes and taxing the undertaxed with what would be gained from a candy tax increase, it seems as though Wilson and the state legislators are deliberately insulting lower income earners and attempting to find out just how much they can get away with oppressing the poor and people of color.

Wilson's logic is made perfectly clear by his raising of what is already the largest prison budget in the history of the United States by 15% and by increasing funding for police. His intention is to protect the privileges of the elite while oppressing and imprisoning those who reclaim what their labor produced.

-by Dean

LETTERS CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2

Hispanics and poor Whites have had to beg at the backdoor of White American justice, like servants on the plantation. We have had to walk backwards into the American dream, while there's only an American nightmare to be seen.

Now I have to fight my way out of this prison, and all I really have is my integrity as a Blackman. I have that in place of cash or property. Surely it must be worth something, otherwise, why would the State go to such costly and great lengths to try and destroy it?

I ask only one thing mainly: To get my message out to someone that might be willing to correspond with a Black male, and also that's willing to help support me not financially, but emotionally through these troublesome times that are facing me... What I am saying is I am not "hip" to the pen pal situation, but if you have one available, please ad me to to your list immediately. I've heard so much about Slingshot — it must be very radical, all of my friends talk about it at length.

In Solidarity
Brothers and Sisters of All Nationalities,

H.C. Green, T.D.C.#374766
Box 16
Lovelady, Texas 75851

UC CUTS : whose interests served?

The U.C. system was initially expected to absorb $295 million of the cuts in state education funding but as tax returns are received and as the State discovers that businesses and the wealthy paid even less taxes than expected, this figure may rise to $395 million. California, being the wealthiest state in the nation, should be increasing state spending on education and not moving from 45th to 49th in the nation in public spending for education. Realistically the kind of resistance necessary to force the state legislators to tax those who finance

Center will be losing as much as 10% of its funding, despite the fact that its enrollment has grown by 104% in the last 6 years. Summer Bridge's very existence is now in question and fewer Subject A and Math P classes will be taught with obvious implications for retention rates.

President Garner has promised that increased financial aid will be made available to offset the increased tuition costs. A closer look at this plans show that the new financial aid offered is directly at middle income students while there will no alternatives to their plans exist. How is it then that they can afford to build volleyball courts which no one needs or called for on People's Park at a cost of $300,000. Why is it that we must pay $5 million a year for the police force stationed beneath Sproul Hall? As the recent increase in rapes demonstrates, they certainly do little to protect us. Indeed their primary function seems to be brutally harassing the poor, the homeless and campus and community activists such as the disabled Police Review Commissioner Osha Neumann.

Since 1989, the number of U.C. administrators earning more than $100,00 a year has doubled. President of the system Gardner receives a salary of $250,000 a year. Could the salaries of these already wealthy white males not be sacrificed? (If they complain, could we not replace them with student appointed alternatives?) The U.C.B. Long Range and working class people, particularly people of color. CUNY has an open admissions policy which allows any high school graduate to attend one of the campuses. This is a great opportunity for people in a city which has a high school population of mainly people of color and where a high school diploma is not a guarantee of a job.

Two years ago, due to a budget deficit, Governor Mario Cuomo proposed a $200 a year increase in the $1250 tuition on top of millions of dollars in cuts in the CUNY budget. Students lobbied the governor and the legislators to no avail. Stymied by uncaring politicians, many of whom had attended CUNY when it was free and mainly white, the students at City College seized the administration building in the spring semester of student protestors against their fellow students who do not want to lose a semester's worth of work.

The students vow to continue the protest until their demands are met, including the rescinding of the tuition increase, the restoration of financial aid, and the reversal of budget cuts.

Perhaps students at other public campuses around the nation affected by tuition increases and budget cuts should follow the lead of the students of CUNY. When lobbying and letter writing fail, when politicians refuse to tax the wealthy and corporations, and when students are made to feel powerless, perhaps they need to take matters into their own hands. Remember, "Education is a Right, Fight, Fight, Fight."

by A. Student

taxes for corporations and the wealthy, any attempt at which the governor says he will veto.

Instead he is calling for increased taxes on candy!, alcohol, newspapers, snack foods and renters, all of which fall most heavily on lower and middle class taxpayers.

When comparing the revenue that would be raised from closing the loopholes and taxing the undertaxed with what would be gained from a candy tax increase, it seems as though Wilson and the state legislators are deliberately insulting lower income earners and attempting to find out just how much they can get away with oppressing the poor and people of color.

that's willing to help support me not financially, but emotionally through these troublesome times that are facing me... What I am saying is I am not "hip" to the pen pal situation, but if you have one available, please ad me to to your list immediately. I've heard so much about Slingshot — it must be very radical, all of my friends talk about it at length.

In Solidarity
Brothers and Sisters of All Nationalities,

H.C. Green, T.D.C.#374766
Box 16
Lovelady, Texas 75851

UC CUTS : whose interests served?

The U.C. system was initially expected to absorb $295 million of the cuts in state education funding but as tax returns are received and as the State discovers that businesses and the wealthy paid even less taxes than expected, this figure may rise to $395 million. California, being the wealthiest state in the nation, should be increasing state spending on education and not moving from 45th to 49th in the nation in public spending for education. Realistically the kind of resistance necessary to force the state legislators to tax those who finance them and whose interests they serve is unlikely to materialize any time soon. At present there is almost no opposition even to the way in which the cuts are being implemented.

Like Wilson the U.C. Regents are revealing their priorities very clearly. In the same way that Wilson's cuts in social programs are classist and racist, so too are those of the Regents. The first to suffer on the U.C. campuses will be students of color from low income families, especially women, and altered students. Not only are fees being hiked by 36% without any increase in the availability of financial aid but services aimed at retention are being slashed. The Women's Resource Center, which provides both counseling and alternative resources in a white and male dominated environment, is having its budget cut in half, forcing the closure of its library and laying off of an African American woman librarian. The Re Entry Program, run by the Womens Resource Center, has provided crucial services for older returning students. It will disappear altogether. The Student Learning Center, which has made assistance available to those denied adequate primary and secondary education, is projecting a 30% cut and will quite possibly only be available to first year E.O.P. and Affirmative Action students. Similarly, the Disabled Student Center will be losing as much as 10% of its funding despite the fact that its enrollment has grown by 104% in the last 6 years. Summer Bridge's very existence is now in question and fewer Subject A and Math P classes will be taught with obvious implications for retention rates.

President Garner has promised that increased financial aid will be made available to offset the increased tuition costs. A closer look at this plans show that the new financial aid offered is directly at middle income students while there will actually be a decrease in aid to those who really need it. 1000 staff positions will also be cut including numerous work study positions, which have provided a source of income to lower income students. Since students of color are statistically more often from low income families, this too will serve to exclude students of color.

At the graduate level fewer T.A. and R.A. positions will be available, thereby excluding those depending on this source of income. Similarly, increased fees at this level disproportionately affect women who, if raising children and therefore taking longer to complete, will end up paying significantly more. Cuts in health services offered at Cowell Hospital, which is now to become little more than a referral service, will obviously also affect those who cannot afford exorbitant health insurance.

The few alternative programs in existence are also threatened with the possibility of a merger between CRS and Forestry, and between Development Studies, PEIS and Latin American Studies being given serious consideration, while PACS may disappear altogether. Diversity of opinion is clearly also under attack.

Like Wilson the Regents would have us believe that no alternatives to their plans exist. How is it then that they can afford to build volleyball courts which no one needs or called for on People's Park at a cost of $300,000. Why is it that we must pay $5 million a year for the police force stationed beneath Sproul Hall? As the recent increase in rapes demonstrates, they certainly do little to protect us. Indeed their primary function seems to be brutally harassing the poor, the homeless and campus and community activists such as the disabled Police Review Commissioner Osha Neumann.

Since 1989, the number of U.C. administrators earning more than $100,000 a year has doubled. President of the system Gardner receives a salary of $250,000 a year. Could the salaries of these already wealthy white males not be sacrificed? (If they complain, could we not replace them with student appointed alternatives?) The U.C.B. Long Range Development plans call for the construction of many expensive buildings. Yet who is to fill these if the number of staff, faculty and students is being cut? Could it be that these buildings are for more military or corporate research?

In 1986, the campus erupted over U.C.'s investments in South Africa. The present cuts are no less racist than the system of Apartheid which we opposed. Why don't we take a lesson from the students we acted in solidarity with by refusing to cooperate? Last year we held a successful two-day strike demanding amongst others greater faculty and student diversity, improved retention rates, and alternative programs reflecting our needs. the present cuts guarantee that none of those conditions will be met but will instead get worse. It is demanded of us now that we refuse to cooperate and that, like our brothers and sisters in South Africa, we make our collective strength felt. Numerous strategies exist, including building takeovers, strikes, refusal to take final exams, thereby forcing the administration to accommodate next year all those who should have graduated this year, refusing to pay the fee hikes, boycotting registration etc. Ultimately being the ones who pay the power rests in our hands.

PAGE 7

Rally & DIRECT ACTION AGAINST FEE HIKES and SERVICE

COPS

In March, these four Los Angeles Police officers brutally kicked and beat Rodney King with batons, coming very close to killing him. King, a black man, had been pulled over for speeding. At least eleven other police officers watched the attack and did nothing to stop it. We are told that this event was an "aberration," that it was not "a racial incident" and that the fifteen police officers involved do not reflect the true nature of police behavior in our country.

L.A. CO. DISTRICT ATTY.
NAME KOON, STACEY

L.A. CO. DISTRICT ATTY.
NAME BRISENO, TED

L.A. CO. DISTRICT ATTY.
NAME WIND, TIM

L.A. CO. DISTRICT ATTY.
NAME CAVARRE, JIM

COPS

Some of America's most dangerous fugitives wear a uniform, flash a badge and claim to be police.

Find out how you can protect yourself... and bring them to justice.

This is bullshit. Every day poor people, women, ethnic and sexual minorities and others thought less important by our society experience the horror of such cop "aberrations." How many acts of violence against black and latino people, gay people and political dissidents, how many more prostitutes must be raped in the back of police cars, before we rise up and demand an end to this brutality? If there had been no video of this crime, there would have been no crime... Just one more black man with a story of police gangsterism, a story that nobody would have believed.

Wednesday May 1, 1991 CUTS
Biko Plaza
at Noon

People's Park cont. from p. 5

bullets for Sifuentes' gun?

It is obvious that the issue is more than just the Free Box or the Park. It's part of the larger issue of yuppification of Southside and control over People's Park. The University wants to make the Southside inhospitable to the homeless. They want to destroy the heart of People's Park as a place of free speech and freedom. Gentrification is happening all over the country and we need to fight it here in the Southside.

Both the University and the City seem to be under the impression that the transition of the Park from People's Park to UC Student Recreational Facility will take place peacefully as long as they continue to host meetings with community groups. But getting approval from the People's Park Council (membership:6) does not mean the people will go along with it. Please be ready for a call to protect the park. The Park's history includes the people tearing up asphalt once, but this time we need to stop them from putting it in!

By David & Suzanne

El Salvador cont. From p. 6

the comments at a press conference in Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Gen. Powell met separately with Salvadoran president Cristiani and El Salvador's top military leaders-- General Rene Emilio Ponce, Defence Minister, and the head of El Salvador's Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Gilberto Rubio-- on Monday, April 8, to reiterate U.S. support for the Salvadoran government.

According to the press office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Powell's Central American tour "coincidentally" took place during the current peace talks between the FMLN and ARENA. But it is clear that his reference to possible intervention by U.S. forces lends untimely backing to the vocal ultra-right and military, strengthening the most intransigent sector of ARENA who are actively campaigning against negotiations. The FMLN and the civilian opposition to ARENA has much to gain in the current round of negotiations that opened April 4, including reforms of the Constitution and of the Armed Forces, as well as the terms of the cease-fire.

Creating an atmosphere of terror during these delicate talks, the ultra-right is increasing their death squad activity

OBITUARIES

"They're Dropping Like Flies!"

Lee Atwater 1941-1991 (Died from inoperable brain tumor)

A Republican Party "golden boy," he engineered Ronald Reagan's presidential campaigns, and helmed the vicious 1990 Bush campaign. In this campaign, Atwater used racism (the Willie Horton commercials), homophobia (attacking

What ever happened to the BUSH Street 13?

Before the Official War, which killed over 200,000 Iraqis through the most massive and continued airstrikes in history, resistance to current and impending U.S. policies in the Persian Gulf was in full force in the Bay Area. On November 29, a diverse group of student and community activists took over a military outpost in the attack and did nothing to stop it. We are told that this event was an "aberration," that it was not "a racial incident" and that the fifteen police officers involved do not reflect the true nature of police behavior in our country.

Find out how you can protect yourself... and bring them to justice.

to this brutality? If there had been no video of this crime, there would have been no crime... Just one more black man with a story of police gangsterism, a story that nobody would have believed.

El Salvador cont. From p.6

the comments at a press conference in Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Gen. Powell met separately with Salvadoran president Cristiani and El Salvador's top military leaders-- General Rene Emilio Ponce, Defence Minister, and the head of El Salvador's Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Gilberto Rubio-- on Monday, April 8, to reiterate U.S. support for the Salvadoran government.

According to the press office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Powell's Central American tour "coincidentally" took place during the current peace talks between the FMLN and ARENA. But it is clear that his reference to possible intervention by U.S. forces lends untimely backing to the vocal ultra-right and military, strengthening the most intransigent sector of ARENA who are actively campaigning against negotiations. The FMLN and the civilian opposition to ARENA has much to gain in the current round of negotiations that opened April 4, including reforms of the Constitution and of the Armed Forces, as well as the terms of the cease-fire.

Creating an atmosphere of terror during these delicate talks, the ultra-right is increasing their death squad activity and intimidation of the opposition, including campesinos, shantytown dwellers, union members and even President Cristiani and other members of ARENA who are sitting at the negotiation table. Roberto D'Aubuisson and various other shadowy nazis are so opposed to negotiations and fearful of their "fatherland's complete surrender" that on April 8 they took out a full-page ad in the obituary section of the right wing newspaper, El Dairio de Hoy, exhibiting a large question mark and the words: "This space is reserved for the names of the ten traitorous deputies who might endorse the form of Article 248 of the Constitution." Article 248 directs that constitutional amendments must be passed by two successive National Assemblies to become law. Constitutional reform efforts have focused on changing Article 248 so that the constitution may be amended more easily. Ten deputies are needed to sponsor such a reform in the Assembly.

But, regardless of the specific content of Powell's statements, the fact that the highest military officer in the U.S. who just crushed the Iraqi army and killed hundreds of thousands of civilians visited the Salvadoran President and the head of the Salvadoran Armed Forces personally is significant. And the administration's refusal to rule out force coupled with the allusion to the gulf implies a real threat which would not have been made if the administration had no intention of following it through.

The fact that the U.S. press refused to report on Gen. Powell's tour and comments tells us that his message was intended for the FMLN and not the U.S. public. The Bush administration has neither the internal consensus nor the international support for a military venture in El Salvador. But then again, the post-Gulf war euphoria and militarism is at a peak and Bush probably thinks he has little to lose in making good on Powell's threat.

OBITUARIES

"They're Dropping Like Flies!"

Lee Atwater 1941-1991 (Died from inoperable brain tumor)

A Republican Party "golden boy," he engineered Ronald Reagan's presidential campaigns, and helmed the vicious 1990 Bush campaign. In this campaign, Atwater used racism (the Willie Horton commercials), homophobia (attacking "suspected" homosexuals in Congress), and anti-semitism (hiring ex-Nazis for his staff and helping compile lists of Jews in the government). These tactics paid off grandly for the sniveling little shit who once said that "politics are unimportant to me - the main point is to get my man elected."

Apparently feeling remorseful, he quickly converted to Christianity before his death. What a joke. Ha Ha Ha.

U.S. Senator John Tower 1926-1991 (Plane Crash)

A staunch Texas Republican, Tower helmed the infamous "Tower Commission" in charge of sanitizing and covering up the abuses of the Iran-Contra underground network and the Bush-Reagan-North Contra/drug/arms supplies network.

U.S. Senator John Heinz 1930-1991 (Plane Crash)

Heir to the multi-million dollar Heinz (ketchup) fortunes,

They want to destroy the heart of People's Park as a place of free speech and freedom. Gentrification is happening all over the country and we need to fight it here in the Southside.

Both the University and the City seem to be under the impression that the transition of the Park from People's Park to UC Student Recreational Facility will take place peacefully as long as they continue to host meetings with community groups. But getting approval from the People's Park Council (membership:6) does not mean the people will go along with it. Please be ready for a call to protect the park. The Park's history includes the people tearing up asphalt once, but this time we need to stop them from putting it in!

By David & Suzanne

What ever happened to the BUSH Street 13?

Before the Official War, which killed over 200,000 Iraqis through the most massive and continued airstrikes in history, resistance to current and impending U.S. policies in the Persian Gulf was in full force in the Bay Area. On November 29, a diverse group of student and community activists took over a military outpost in downtown San Francisco for the day. The military recruiting station on Bush St. was closed for the entire day by the group of 12, while a combination of firepeople, police, tactical squads, sharpshooters and the FBI tried to rout them.

They then proceeded to arrest the demonstrators who had chained themselves inside the building charging them with 3 felony charges and one misdemeanor each and held them on $24,000 bail each. Jail employees who processed us were outraged at the charges, particularly the felony burglary charge. "Aren't you protesters? What did you do to get felony burglary charges? I've never seen that. Something really weird's going on here. You must have really done something." San Francisco police wanted to terrify all possible anti-war protesters before the "Official War" started. It wasn't going to work!

After the initial mass arrests following the outbreak of war, many corporate lawyers competed with each other to see who can make bigger asses out of themselves by working pro bono in patriotic attempts to reestablish "law and order," and try to prosecute all of the thousand-plus persons arrested. Most of the charges were dropped, as should be, but in the meantime our Bush Street 12 case is the scapegoat.

Now that their War is over and George Bush has snubbed and then embraced the Kurds, our case is being handled by the senior DA as proof of San Francisco's Patriotism and support for its Chamber of Commerce (which took out a full page NYT ad proclaiming disgust negotiation table. Roberto D'Aubuisson and various other shadowy nazis are so opposed to negotiations and fearful of their "fatherland's complete surrender" that on April 8 they took out a full-page ad in the obituary section of the right wing newspaper, El Dairio de Hoy, exhibiting a large question mark and the words: "This space is reserved for the names of the ten traitorous deputies who might endorse the form of Article 248 of the Constitution." Article 248 directs that constitutional amendments must be passed by two successive National Assemblies to become law. Constitutional reform efforts have focused on changing Article 248 so that the constitution may be amended more easily. Ten deputies are needed to sponsor such a reform in the Assembly.

But, regardless of the specific content of Powell's statements, the fact that the highest military officer in the U.S. who just crushed the Iraqi army and killed hundreds of thousands of civilians visited the Salvadoran President and the head of the Salvadoran Armed Forces personally is significant. And the administration's refusal to rule out force coupled with the allusion to the gulf implies a real threat which would not have been made if the administration had no intention of following it through.

The fact that the U.S. press refused to report on Gen. Powell's tour and comments tells us that his message was intended for the FMLN and not the U.S. public. The Bush administration has neither the internal consensus nor the international support for a military venture in El Salvador. But then again, the post-Gulf war euphoria and militarism is at a peak and Bush probably thinks he has little to lose in making good on Powell's threat.

The Bush administration must not be allowed to get away with this provocation unscathed.

In related news the March 10th municipal and legislative elections in El Salvador were held in a climate of intimidation and violence. Just to list a few examples of the violence: the election campaign commenced with the massacre of the entire adult population in El Zapote on January 21st by the 1st Infantry Brigade. In the weeks prior to the elections, security forces shot and killed an opposition candidate and his pregnant wife, and shot and blinded another candidate. The only opposition newspaper that reported on opposition parties and their activities was burned to the ground in early February. Due to repression, opposition parties were only able to run candidates in a third of the municipalities. On election day, many people who had registered did not receive their voting cards on time, or did not appear on electoral lists. Ballots marked for the Democratic Convergence and the National Democratic Union were found thrown in the streets after the vote.

Like usual, the Bush administration declared the elections to be democratic and fair.

Most people in the opposition movement don't believe the elections will bring resolution to the end of the fascist ARENA government, but they also believe that in order to move the negotiation process forward and open up the political space for the grassroots movement they need representation in the National Assembly.

helping compile lists of Jews in the government). These tactics paid off grandly for the snivling little shit who once said that "politics are unimportant to me - the main point is to get my man elected."

Apparently feeling remorseful, he quickly converted to Christianity before his death. What a joke. Ha Ha Ha.

U.S. Senator John Tower 1926-1991 (Plane Crash)

A staunch Texas Republican, Tower helmed the infamous "Tower Commission" in charge of sanitizing and covering up the abuses of the Iran-Contra underground network and the Bush-Reagan-North Contra/drug/arms supplies network.

U.S. Senator John Heinz 1930-1991 (Plane Crash)

Heir to the multi-million dollar Heinz (ketchup) fortunes, Senator Heinz, a lifelong Republican, took a dive in an airplane as well.

Detlev Rohwedder 1933-1991 (offed)

He was shot dead up by the Red Army Faction in Germany. He was head of Treuhand, the world's largest corporation which in recent months has been snapping up and speculating upon thousands of businesses and properties in East Germany.

Rohwedder's body being carried from his house firepeople, police, tactical squads, sharpshooters and the FBI tried to rout them.

They then proceeded to arrest the demonstrators who had chained themselves inside the building charging them with 3 felony charges and one misdemeanor each and held them on $24,000 bail each. Jail employees who processed us were outraged at the charges, particularly the felony burglary charge. "Aren't you protesters? What did you do to get felony burglary charges? I've never seen that. Something really weird's going on here. You must have really done something." San Francisco police wanted to terrify all possible anti-war protesters before the "Official War" started. It wasn't going to work!

After the initial mass arrests following the outbreak of war, many corporate lawyers competed with each other to see who can make bigger asses out of themselves by working pro bono in patriotic attempts to reestablish "law and order," and try to prosecute all of the thousand-plus persons arrested. Most of the charges were dropped, as should be, but in the meantime our Bush Street 12 case is the scapegoat.

Now that their War is over and George Bush has snubbed and then embraced the Kurds, our case is being handled by the senior DA as proof of San Francisco's Patriotism and support for its Chamber of Commerce (which took out a full page NYT ad proclaiming disgust and disdain for the lawless protests and the city's formal Sanctuary status for GI resisters). The 3 felony charges were downgraded to 7 misdemeanor charges, yet after months of court dates, the DA has proclaimed that this is "a state prison case" and in his insanity offered us:

1. one year in prison deferred to three years probation, the first year of which is supervised (during all of which we are subject to random searches and drug testing), AND
2. 120 days of SWAP (the Sheriff's gang labor project for poor people: 9 hours/day, 6 days/week, no pay, orange vests, side of the road, etc.) OR 30 days in jail (where at least we would get food and housing), AND
3. monetary restitution for whatever unspecified damage the police did (which of course must of been our fault).

WE DECLINED.

On April 29, the Bush Street 12 will be setting a court date for trial -- sometime late May, early summer. We will be organizing a defense committee soon and hope to hook up with GI resistance cases across the nation to fight the military state in its various forms. Watch for more news on fliers about town and in the next issue. We need your help on our defense committee!! Any time, skills, energy you have. (We don't need money, so no liberals need apply.)

by Natasha